Team Workers Gather at Luncheon and Report Their Success

"It ain't the guns nor armament,
Nor the army as a whole,
But the everlastin' teamwork
Of every bloomin' soul!"
RUDYARD KIPLING.

The four majors who went over the top with their "green," "white," "blue" and "gold" divisions when "zero hour" sounded at 9 o'clock this morning had by noon gained their first objectives and added $3533 to the $16,325 already pledged toward the $50,000 advertising fund drive for a Glendale of 100,000 population, bringing the total subscribed to $19,858.

These figures were disclosed at a 12 o'clock luncheon held in the Harriett Mae tea room, 201 East Harvard street, attended by approximately 100 team workers, captains and majors.

Make Reports

R. E. Johnston, major of Division No. 3, was unable to attend, as the Exchange club, of which he is president, held its weekly luncheon meeting this noon. He reported his total to P. B. Ogden, drive director, and promised to "make them sit up and take notice" tomorrow noon, when another luncheon meeting will be held at the Harriett Mae tea room.

Division No. 2, of which Charles B. Guthrie is major, "the realtors division," took the laurels today, reporting $2246 collected since 9 o'clock this morning. J. W. Pearson, a captain in this division, headed the captains' list with a total of $860 garnered in this morning by his team.

Lots of Enthusiasm

Major Lyman P. Clark of Division No. 1 and Major George B. Kerr of Division No. 4 concur with Major "Bob" Johnston that they will "make them (meaning Charlie Guthrie's realtors) sit up and take notice" when the totals are added again tomorrow noon.

The meeting was characterized by enthusiasm and Chairman M. Walters of the C. of C. ways and means committee declared that he was well pleased over the fine showing made before the drive was scarcely under way.

Following is a summary by divisions of the drive totals to

ROSE TOURNAMENT

PASADENA, April 22.—Last night the members of the Tournament of Roses organization of Pasadena held their annual meeting and re-elected the directors of the preceding year. The directors will hold their meeting next week for the election of officers. It is believed the organization will remain intact.

Poincare Insists Right for France To Remain In Ruhr

PARIS, April 22.—Following a long conference today between Premier Poincare and Louis Barthou, chairman of the inter-allied reparations commission, it was reported that the premier insisted upon a supplemental report from the commission assuring France of the right to remain in the Ruhr until the Dawes plan is fully functioning.

County In Need Of Medical Game Wardens, Declared

NEW YORK, April 22.—"Medical game wardens" to protect the public health were advocated by State Senator William Love in an address to the newly formed "matrimony class" at the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A.

"Why, even the rabbits in the fields are better protected by our laws than the public health, especially the moral health of the community," said the senator. "We need medical game wardens to drive away the poachers in the domain of public health. No man should be allowed to marry who cannot give a clean bill of health. Tuberculars should not marry and insanity is the most dangerous hereditary condition of all."

Senator Love advised men to marry women about the same age as themselves. He said that while tall men often preferred short women the alleged attraction of blondes for brunettes "is all tommy rot."

OREGON EMBARGO MAY BE CHANGED

Committee Will Determine Possible Modification Of Plague Ban

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—A special committee named by Governor Pierce of Oregon to investigate the foot and mouth disease situation in California and determine whether the northern state is justified in modifying her embargo, will reach here Thursday. Governor Pierce, according to word received from the California committee in Oregon, has urged Idaho and Washington to take similar action.

A rigid quarantine over San Bernardino county was in effect today, following confirmation of an outbreak of the livestock plague in a herd of hogs there yesterday.

Word has been received from Washington, D. C., that Secretary Wallace has agreed to appoint special deputies to certify fruit for shipment through states enforcing embargoes against California, thereby assuring movement of the fresh fruit crop to eastern markets.

FLARE-UP COMES IN OIL SCANDAL

Oregon Solon Opposes Walsh Plan to Drop Hearing On Naval Leases

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The row which has been brewing behind the scenes in the Senate committee investigating the naval oil leases flared up afresh today.

In the face of the declaration of Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, that hearings would be temporarily abandoned after the examination of three additional witnesses, Senator Stanfield, Republican of Oregon, announced that he was prepared to continue the inquiry vigorously "if there is any doubt in the minds of the public as to the freedom of the 1920 Republican convention from any oil deals."

FLYER ARRIVES

BOMBAY, April 22.—Flight Commander Stuart Maclaren of the Royal Air force, who is attempting a round-the-world airplane flight, has arrived safely at Bushire, Persia from Bagdad, said a dispatch from that city today.

RAIN HALTS PLAGUE, IS CLAIMED

Minimum of Cattle Scourge In Wet Areas, Asserts Chas. M. Hatfield

Rainfall as the greatest preventative of the hoof and mouth disease now sweeping Southern California, has been clearly demonstrated, according to Charles M. Hatfield and Paul Hatfield, Glendale's famous rain-producing brothers, who returned yesterday from their latest assignment where they produced over three inches of rain in one month.

"Our plant was located in Fresno county at an elevation of 3,000 feet above sea level," Charles M. Hatfield said, "and the territory we covered included Kings county, part of Fresno county and part of Tulare county, the major portion of it being what is known as Tulare lake land.

"It has been interesting to note there is no hoof and mouth disease in Fresno county, in fact, very little, if any, in the territory served by us with rain. Mercedes county, to the north, and Stanislaus county, also to the north, had very little rainfall during the month. The disease is bad in both of these counties, and over 6,000 head of cattle have been slaughtered in Mercedes county.

"Madera county to the east, and

CHARGES FAILURE TO PUNISH TRUST

Federal Trade Commission Member Tells Senate Probers of Suit

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The department of justice, under former Attorney-General Daugherty, blocked for three years all prosecution of a "pine lumber trust," Huston Thompson, chairman of the federal trade commission, charged today before the Wheeler-Brookhart committee.

Thompson said the committee complained evidence of trust operations against the Southern Pine association in 1921, and filed a complaint with the department of justice. Although the suit was immediately filed against the association, Thompson said, it was never prosecuted by Daugherty.

Uses Sun's Heat To Melt Diamonds Inventor's Claim

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—The startling claim was made here today by friends of Mariel Moreau, an inventor, that he has found a means of utilizing the sun's heat so that temperatures hot enough to melt diamonds can be produced.

The machine is a series of mirrors and lenses so arranged as to concentrate the collected rays through a series of mirrors at one focal point.

According to Moreau's associates he has melted carbon at 610 degrees, a diamond, platinum, tungsten and other hard metals. Moreau, they said, is working on a plan to apply the invention to heat production on a large scale and may utilize Death Valley as an experiment station.

BONUS BILL IS TOSSED IN TALK

Long Debate Is Delaying Vote on Measure In Senate Today

By WM. K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Almost drowned in a sea of words, the soldiers' bonus bill bobbed around in the Senate this afternoon while its supporters waited silently for a chance to force a final vote on passage.

Meeting at 11 a. m., an hour earlier than usual, the Senate plunged into the bonus debate, hopeful that the bill would be passed before nightfall.

Talk Delays Program

Many speeches, however, disrupted the program, and when Senator William E. Borah, Republican, Idaho, took the floor shortly before 3 o'clock and launched a broadside attack on the bonus in general, there were some doubts that a vote would be possible today.

Most of the Republicans and at least half of the Democrats were in favor of passing the bill without any provisions for cash bonus payments, in view of the determination on the part of administration leaders to enact such a measure over a presidential veto.

The majority group feels certain that a bonus bill will be defeated finally because of the Senate's inability to muster enough votes to pass the bill in the face of the president's objections.

Demands were heard, however, for a record vote to decide the issue.

Disagreeing with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, who is supporting the paid-up insurance bonus plan, Senator Copeland, Democrat, of New York proposed to have the Senate express itself on the cash bonus. Copeland has an amendment pending to make cash payments and asked for a vote during the afternoon.

WELCOME PACIFIC FLEET AT HARBOR

Warships Arrive Two Hours Ahead of Time; Greeted By Whistle Blasts

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, April 22.—Taking the residents here by surprise, the Pacific fleet, scheduled to arrive shortly after noon today, put in an appearance shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, after winter maneuvers in southern waters.

Extensive preparations had been made to give the returning fleet and its personnel a hearty welcome and, though the early arrival of the fleet upset pre-arranged plans, it was but a few minutes before crowds swarmed to the water front to meet the officers and men. The warships were sighted outside the harbor, and as they steamed into the channel every boat and tug tha with all the noise it possessed. boasted of a whistle blared forth

Free Seed Issue Is Halted by Congress

WASHINGTON, April 22,—There will be no free seeds for congressmen to distribute next year.

The House of Representatives had its usual battle today over the free seed issue and finally rejected a proposed appropriation of $300,000 to pay for the seeds. The vote was 79 to 46.

SEARCH STARTED FOR SEATTLE MAN

Sister-In-Law Reported He Kidnaped Her, Took Her To San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Police today sought George F. Carr, 47, as a result of the startling story told by Miss Rose Fahey, 18. She appeared at police headquarters and said that Carr, her brother-in-law, had abducted her six days ago in Seattle and forced her at the point of a gun to accompany him on the 1200-mile ride to San Francisco. She was on the verge of collapse as a result of fright and exposure. She said she escaped after Carr had locked her in a room at a local hotel. She declared him mentally unbalanced and said she believed his object in kidnaping her was to force her sister to drop a divorce action against Carr.

Soviet Concessions To Be Brief, Warning

MOSCOW, April 22.—M. Zinoviev, who has become one of the most powerful leaders in the soviet system since the death of Lenine, told the miners' convention today that the "soviet is in no hurry to grant concessions which will be only for brief periods anyway."

AUCKLAND, April 22. — A general rail strike tied up transportation throughout New Zealand today.

Bomb Thrown In Chicago Apartment House; One Injured

CHICAGO, April 22.—Five hundred west side residents were aroused today when a bomb, believed to have been thrown from a passing automobile, exploded in the entrance of a former saloon on the first floor of an apartment building. Mrs. Jennie Mooney was hurled to the floor and pinned there by her head, and many residents of the apartment building were severely shaken up.

PLAN RETURN OF STOLEN PROPERTY

Articles Seized by Customs Men In Crossing Line To Be Sent Back

WASHINGTON, April 22 — Arrangements have been concluded between the United States and Canada, according to an announcement at the state department today, for the return of stolen property of all kinds belonging to residents of one country and seized by the customs authorities of the other.

The effect of the arrangement will be to release a number of automobiles belonging to citizens of the United States which have been stolen and smuggled across the border.

Nevada Draws Border Plague Ban Tighter

RENO, Nev., April 22.—State officials today tightened restrictions on travel from California in connection with quarantine against the hoof and mouth disease. No automobiles will be permitted to cross the state line after 6 p. m., according to an order issued by State Quarantine Officer Dr. E. E. Records.

Disinfecting stations will be operated only between 6 a. m. and 6 p. m., Dr. Records announced. Tourist congestion looms as a result because of the heavy travel forced this way by Arizona's absolute embargo on auto traffic from California.

Gambler Admits Mail Robbery; Slays Self

MADRID, April 22—The sensational and mysterious robbery of the mail car upon the Cordova express and the murder of two clerks was cleared up today by Antonio Ternel Lopez, a professional gambler, who committed suicide after leaving several letters confessing the crime.

NOTED PUBLISHERS HEAR PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM OF PEACE AND READJUSTMENT

Nation Can Take Prominent Part in World Affairs Outside of League, Says Chief Executive; Praises Dawes' Report

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 22.—America stands ready to call another world conference—for further restriction of armament and re-codification of international law—if the Dawes commission succeeds in settling the German reparations question, and Europe returns to a stability and composure that would be conducive to the success of such a gathering, President Coolidge told a distinguished audience of newspaper publishers at the Waldorf here today.

For the first time since he entered the White House, Mr. Coolidge dealt extensively with foreign affairs in a public address, and he outlined in general terms what he conceived to be the role that the United States can best play in the adjustment of world affairs toward the goal of international peace and understanding.

Not For League

This role does not contemplate American entrance into the League of Nations, the president said, "for our country refused to adhere to the covenant of the league with a decisive rejection that I regard as final."

But outside the league, the president declared the United States could and should play a prominent part in promoting world betterment by frequently engaging in international conferences by adhering to a world court of justice and by so conducting its own affairs as to demonstrate to other nations the unselfishness and desire for service that underlie American idealism.

Praises Dawes Report

This program, Mr. Coolidge thought, can be carried out without any impairment of America's political or economic independence and without any sacrifice of America's right to judge for herself what part she shall play in world affairs.

He praised the Dawes report as a step toward European peace and stability—"nothing of more importance to Europe has occurred since the armistice,"—and he expressed the hope that American capital will participate in the German loan which Dawes recommended.

"I do not claim," said the president, "to be able to announce any formula that will guarantee the peace of the world.

"There are certain definite things however that I believe can be done, which certainly ought to be tried.

Restores Harmony

"I believe that among these are frequent international conferences suited to particular needs. The Washington conference did a great deal to restore harmony and good

SOCIALIST DEMANDS

MADRID, April 22.—A Socialist manifesto was issued today demanding that the directory restore the constitutional regime, end the Moroccan war, declare amnesty and reduce the cost of living.

THAW CASE IN HANDS OF JURY

Patient Causes Excitement When He Rushes to Reporters' Table

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The sanity trial of Harry K. Thaw went to the jury at 3:18 o'clock this afternoon in common pleas court.

Upon the decision of the jury, two of whose members are negroes, depends whether or not Thaw will be released from Kirkbride asylum, where he has been confined for the last seven years.

Thaw instituted the present hearing, contending he is sane and that he should be given his liberty.

Causes Excitement

Thaw created a commotion in the court of common pleas here this afternoon when he suddenly rushed over to the press table, shook the hands of several correspondents, and, gesticulating wildly, said he was afraid "they would break the jury during the morning but he wasn't afraid now."

The reporters couldn't understand him and within a few minutes he was talking most excitedly, so much so that his chief counself, former Judge John M. Patterson, spoke to Judge Monaghan and then turned to face the court room and called for order.

The commotion ended by the reporters being ejected from the court room by bailiffs and attend-

U. S. TO TAKE CHARGE OF PLAGUE FIGHT

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—The federal government will assume complete charge of the fight against the hoof and mouth disease in California. Governor Richardson was advised this afternoon that in response to his request, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has agreed to this move. Federal headquarters will be established in Sacramento and state employes now fighting the scourge deputized as federal agents. The federal authorities will also take charge of the embargo situation. At the same time Governor Richardson sent a telegram to Secretary Wallace protesting against action of the state of Arizona in closing roads this side of the Arizona border declaring such action "inhuman."

MOISTURE HALTS PLAGUE, IS CLAIM

Hatfield Declares Rainfall Prevents Spread of Cattle Scourge

Los Angeles and Kern counties to the south are fighting the plague now, while Monterey county, to the west of where we were located, is free of the disease.

No Germs Carried

"It is an established fact that the germs can be carried from one place to another by the wind, provided the land is dry so the germs mix with the dust. It can be seen easily that no dust floats over land soaked by heavy rains, therefore no germs are carried.

"Another fact responsible for the spread of the disease is foul land. The hoofs of cattle become infected when walking over foul land, and the infection spreads, so authorities tell us. A heavy rain acts as a cleansing agency, carrying the foul top soil down into the valley where there is more water, or driving it further into the ground.

"Laymen, as well as scientists and meteorologists, know rain produces certain gasses that counteract all germs. Drought results in disease spreading, regardless of what kind it is. Rain keeps down disease.

Grain Not Sprouted

"We went to the place where he placed our plant about March 12. Grain in that territory had not sprouted, and cattle and sheep were dying on the hillsides from want of vegetation. The records show only .30 inch of rain during the winter months.

"The general average precipitation over the lake bottom for the month we were there amounted to three inches. Some gauges reported more. Good crops are assured in that region and plenty of vegetation for stock will result.

"Last Friday members of the committee accompanied us over the territory we had served, and we dug down in several places to see how far the moisture had penetrated. We dug as far as three feet below the surface and did not find dry soil. The soil there is principally silt.

Lake Bear Sea Level

"The lake is near sea level, the lowest point being only 150 feet above sea level. The plant was forty miles west of the lake, at an elevation of 3000 feet; placed at that altitude to get in touch wiht the clouds that moved from west to east.

"Many persons visited our plant daily. Some time the visitors would run in excess of 200 daily. Included in the number who called to see us operate were numerous scientific men, teachers and professors of physics in schools and colleges. Visitors came from all over the state.

Assisting Nature

"Nature does 99 per cent of the work in the rain-producing matter. We only assist nature, by artificial means. Our work is like that of the doctor who gives you medicine—he is only assisting nature. There is nothing phenomenal or superhuman about our work, as many people suppose.

"There are four chief factors in producing rain: First, evaporation; second, elevation; third, low barometric pressure, and fourth, humidity of atmosphere. These are the points on which we work with our artificial assistance.

"Nature requires all four of these factors before rain is forthcoming. Without them rainfall would be absolutely impossible, natural or artificial. Any student of meteorology can vouch for these statements and sanction this thought—that these are the very principles that underlie precipitation.

Return Next Year

"The same farmers who signed our contract early in March have asked us to return next winter and sign a contract for one year or more. They have asked us not to sign up for any other location for that time. They want to make the contract more extensive and cover more territory.

"We will put the plant at a different location, if we make that contract, and will go up into that country at least two months before we are to start work, to pick out a suitable location.

"The territory that they want us to influence will cover nine-tenths of the San Joaquin valley and will extend from Bakersfield on the south to Los Banos on the north. There has been no decision among the farmers as to the amount of rainfall the contract will specify.

Glad to Return

"We are glad to get back to Glendale, after spending a month in the back country. We had lots of visitors, but at the same time we missed the 'fastest growing city in America.' It was like coming back to civilization after spending over a month in the wilderness.

"Glendale is our home, and here we intend to stay. It is good enough for us. Between contracts we will rest here, and prepare our chemicals for the next 'assault upon the clouds.'"

Wed at Church

Glendale friends of Miss Eleanor Collins, daughter of the late Albert W. Collins, will be interested to learn of her marriage to John K. Powell of Los Angeles, the ceremony taking place at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, April 21, 1924, at St. John's Episcopal church in Los Angeles. Rev. Davidson was the officiant.

Only relatives of the young couple attended the ceremony, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Morgan and son Eric of 1125 South Central avenue, Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. Asa Collins of Hollywood.

Miss Collins, who wore a traveling outfit in shades of beige was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. George F. Shaver, of 5157 Seventh avenue, Los Angeles.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Powell left for a honeymoon trip, and, upon return, will reside with Mrs. Shaver.

The Collins family came to Glendale when Mrs. Powell was a very small girl, and during her residence here she attended Cerritos Avenue school and Glendale Union High school. Following Mr. Collins' death she and her mother moved to Los Angeles.

GLENDALE POLICE OFFICER HONORED

Lieut. Royle Named Trustee In L. A. County Benefit Association

Lieutenant W. J. Royle of the local police department has received notification from the headquarters of the Los Angeles County Peace Officers' association that he has been appointed a trustee of the organization.

This association, fostered by E. W. Hartman of Pasadena, wealthy merchant, and several Los Angeles associations, provides for all members at a nominal cost of $6 per year the best legal talent obtainable and the services of expert investigators in case an officer is sued for false arrest, slander, or any other charge that is placed against him, resulting from an official act.

Practically every officer in the county is a member, and Lieutenant Royle's appointment is a recognition of the splendid work he has done as head of the local Firemen's and Policemen's Benefit association.

Greater Los Angeles Banquet Is Planned

Three hundred invitations have been issued to the banquet that is to be held Wednesday night, April 23, at the Oakmont Country club, in connection with the development of the program of the Greater Los Angeles association, according to Charles B. In addition to the busines men of Glendale who will be guests at the dinner, a number of the officials of the association will be present to explain the aims of the movement that has assumed such proportions since its start a few weeks ago.

The importance of the industrial development of the Greater Los Angeles area will be stressed by the speakers who will address the meeting and the campaign to secure a strong Glendale representation on the membership rolls will be launched.

Friends to Send War Wrecked Baron Home

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 22.—A long-cherished dream to spend his old age in the land of his birth is about to be realized by "Baron" Herman von Goldschmidt, a Prussian soldier, who spent twenty years in the army of the former German Kaiser.

The "Baron" came to Colorado Springs about fifteen years ago and for several years was "Little Lunnon's" fashion plate and Beau Brummel, being much sought in the social whirl.

Reverses caused by the World War are said to have practically made a pauper of Von Goldschmidt, and he has been an inmate of the county almshouse nere for some time.

A number of friends have been collecting funds to aid the "Baron" in returning to Germany, where, it is understood, relatives will give him a home. Passports have been applied for, and it is expected he will start for his native land shortly.

Helpful Hints

THE "C" BATTERY. Where considerable strength of signals is required, particularly when dry-cell tubes are used, it is advisable to use a rather high B battery voltage. However, the immediate result of such a course is to introduce distortion. This may be overcome by the use of a "C" battery in the grid circuit, which clears up the signals and prevents the partial paralysis of the tubes which would result from high B battery voltage alone. Where 45 volts of B battery are used, no C battery is necessary. If louder signals are desired, use about 67 volts of B battery, with 1½ to 3 volts C battery. When 80 to 110 volts B battery are used, a C battery of 3 to 7½ volts is recommended. The best combination may be found by experiment.

TELLS METHODS TO FOLLOW TO SECURE REFUND

Collector Rex B. Goodcell Explains Decision of Treasury Heads

Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell yesterday announced the procedure to be followed by approximately 100,000 taxpayers in Southern California who will be affected by the new ruling permitting the division of income received from community property.

Taxpayers may file claim for refund for taxes over paid for the years 1918 to 1923 inclusive. Claims for 1918 will be allowed provided a waiver is filed on or before June 15, 1924.

Collector Goodcell said that claims for refund should be filed for the years 1918 to 1922 inclusive, showing net amount of refund due, accompanied by amended return for husband and delinquent return for wife, in all cases where only one return was filed. Separate amended returns shall accompany claim for refund where two returns were filed. Separate claims shall be filed for each year affected.

Must Sign Agreement

All claims must be accompanied by an agreement signed by both husband and wife consenting to the adjustment therein demanded.

For the year 1923, Collector Goodcell suggested that claims be filed, against the subsequent installments due this year upon the taxpayer's return for 1923, provided the tax has not been paid in full.

If the amount of tax assessed and not paid on the return filed by the taxpayer is more than the total tax due upon amended returns, Collector Goodcell said that a claim for abatement should be filed for the excess shown to be due on the original 1923 return over the separate returns filed with claim, and that a claim for credit be filed for the taxes over paid for the calendar year 1922 to be applied against the balance remaining due for the calendar year 1923.

Only Community Property

Collector Goodcell invited the attention of all taxpayers to the fact that the Treasury Decision 3568 permits the division of in-

WILL CELEBRATE 55 HAPPY YEARS OF WEDDED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skelton To Mark Anniversary Of Their Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skelton of 331 Fairview avenue will celebrate their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary on Saturday, April 26, at the G. A. R. hall on South Glendale avenue. They have invited the members of N. P. Banks post and W. R. C., relatives and other friends to commemorate with them their nuptial day upon its fifty-fifth anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Skelton's daughter, Miss Lenora Skelton, has arranged for a patriotic and musical program to be presented at 1 o'clock, which will be followed by an informal reception.

Mrs. Skelton before her marriage fifty-five years ago was Miss Burnett Stiles and she and Mr. Skelton were married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Stiles on April 29, 1869, in Postville, Iowa. She was a blushing bride of 18 summers and he a young man just six years her senior.

Bridesmaid Guest

Among the guests who will share with them the joys and pleasures of this celebration will be Mrs. C. A. Ripley of Long Beach, who attended Mrs. Skelton as maid of honor at the wedding so many years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Skelton's two daughters, Miss Lenora Skelton who makes her home with them, and Mrs. R. C. Weideman of Riverside will also be present. Other relatives who will participate in the celebration are R. C. Weideman and the Skeltons' one grandchild, Chester R. Weideman, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Weideman, and Mr. Skelton's cousin, Oren Taylor of Clear Lake, Iowa, Mrs. Skelton's sister, Mrs. James McEwen of Postville, Iowa, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Why I Am In Glendale

Four years ago in a city back east,
We shivered and shook (to say the least)
We waded the slush and climbed through the snows,
And how else we managed, the Lord alone knows.
We shoveled more coal in one day over there,
Than we'd find if we hunted 'round here in a year;
Well, we finally got wise, and decided 'twas best
To hunt up the sunshine we'd heard was out west.
We boarded our auto so there would be nothing we'd miss,
And finally reached L. A., where the sun and sea kiss.
We searched far and near for the most beautiful spot to stay,
So to Glendale we came, you couldn't chase us away.
We've bought, but not in Valhalla, for we don't want to die;
We can't see how it could be better—even up in the sky.

DANCER TO GIVE LECTURE SERIES

Woman With Perfect Figure To Reveal Secrets of Health Culture

By LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN
By Southland News Service

Olive Ann Alcorn, premier dancer for Schuberts' "Passing Show of 1923," and who is now dancing at the local theatres, will begin a novel series of lectures to southern California clubwomen next week, her first lecture to be given at a Broadway tea room. Miss Alcorn, who is known as the woman with the perfect figure, will exhibit her own body, to women only, and show them how she has built each muscle and rounded each shapely curve. Reducing by a new system of breathing and a diet of raw carrots and green stuffs will be taught the plump ones and the thin ones will be shown a short cut to fat by the olive oil and spaghetti route.

If Pat O'Malley's two-weeks-old daughter "takes after" him in looks, she will be named Patricia; if she most resembles her mother, the mother will have the naming of her, and she is undecided whether it shall be Nora or Shirley. The film fans, however, are to decide who the young redheaded tot really looks like and will have a hand in the christening today. This is the fourth redhead in the Pat O'Malley family so far.

Society Girl in Film

Thelma Morgan Converse, sister-in-law of Reggie Vanderbilt, and daughter of a former minister to Belgium, who has just taken a leading part in Cytherea, will be featured in Sam Goldwyn's new production, "Tarnish." Her disappearance from the New York smart set a few months ago was the sensation of Manhattan, as she told no one of her whereabouts until she had secured a footing in the films.

Maurice Tourneur left for Mexico yesterday and will spend a week looking for location for his next production.

Initiative to Solve Legislative Mix-Up

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Reapportionment of legislative delegates throughout California will devolve upon the voters by means of the initiative. This was the prospect as the result of a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce in which two widely divergent plans for representation were laid before representatives of ten Southern California counties and a sprinkling of northern California delegates. One of the plans is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and allied interests, and the other by the California Farm Bureau Federation, the latter having the support of Northern California. No compromise was reached.

Six Red Chickens Lay Nine Eggs In One Working Shift

Hearing an unwonted uproar in his chicken yard yesterday afternoon, Robert E. Kreinbring of 1108 South Boynton street armed himself and went to the scene of the disturbance. What he found was that instead of being robbed, he was the recipient of a stock dividend, as it were. In short, his six Rhode Island Reds had ushered into the world nine eggs in one day. Something to cackle about, what?

Six of the eggs had hard shells and three had soft, but all were full sized and not distinguishable from one another in the frying-pan. Evidently the salubrious weather of the last week had some cheering effect on his pets, Mr. Kreinbring thinks, or else the hens looked at Glendale's building permits for April and were filled with ambition.

P. E. Power Station To Aid Port Traffic

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The early construction of a 1500-kilowatt automatic substation of improved design to be erected near Twenty-fifth street and Long Beach avenue was announced today at Pacific Electric railroad headquarters. The building and electric equipment will entail an outlay of $104,000 and is made necessary on account of the increasing volume of freight and passenger traffic to the harbor district and other points on the Pacific Electric located to the south and southeast.

The new station will serve the four track section on Long Beach avenue between Twenty-fifth street and Slauson avenue, over which 1300 passenger cars and 1200 freight cars are operated daily.

The erection of the new substation will give the Pacific Electric a total of 53 power transforming stations in Southern California, 15 of which are of the improved automatic type. The 53 stations have an aggregate capacity of 70,000 kilowatts.

CHANGES IN S. P. TIME SCHEDULES ARE ANNOUNCED

Stopping All Trains Here Is Cause of Adjustment Made by Railway

Several changes in the Southern Pacific local schedule, made necessary by the decision of the company to stop all trains at Glendale, are announced by Arthur J. Rehwold, traveling passenger agent, from the office at 106 North Brand boulevard.

The only train on the line that does not now stop here is the crack Daylight Limited, which runs from Los Angeles to San Francisco with no stops whatever, leaving each terminus at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and arriving at 7:45 o'clock at night, a twelve-hour run that establishes a new record for high speed on this line, making an average of close to sixty miles an hour the entire distance.

Set Time Ahead

The principal changes are in the nature of a general tightening of schedules, several of the trains being set ahead a few minutes, notably the Owl, the Lark and the Padre, which now leave Glendale for San Francisco at 8:25, 9 and 9:10 o'clock in the morning, respectively, and stop at Glendale en route to Los Angeles at 6:21, 8:21 and 8:06 o'clock at night, respectively.

Other changes include substitution of a gasoline engine on No. 37 going to Santa Paula and on No. 34 coming back. No. 31, to Santa Barbara, now carries a through standard sleeper from Chicago, via the Golden State Limited, as No. 32, from Santa Barbara, carries one to Chicago. No. 101, the Sunset Limited, leaving Glendale at 8:53 o'clock nightly, is a through train to New Orleans, and No. 102, from New Orleans to Los Angeles, passes through Glendale at 7:20 o'clock every morning.

Hatchet Is Buried In Ancient Screen Feud

HOLLYWOOD, April 22.—Yesterday Lewis Stone and Charley Ray shook hands and buried an ancient feud dating from the time when a blushing young enthusiast broke into Stone's dressing room and asked advice about getting into the films. Stone looked the awkward, immature, blushing, stammering youth over and said: "My son, I cannot see the slightest trace of latent genius lurking beneath you fair young brow. Go back and stick to your grocery counter and be a credit to the old home town." The youth so advised was Charley Ray himself.

Forgetting is a virtue, if you are wise in selecting what to forget.

"No Grudge"

Y. BRYAN YAMASHITA, Jap rail executive, deprecates talk of trouble over immigrant ban.

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Exclusion of the Japanese from the United States and abrogation of the "gentlemen's agreement" by congress will have little real effect in Japan, in the opinion of Y. Bryan Yamashita, adviser to the South Manchuria railroad, who is at the Biltmore hotel today.

"Of course it has hurt our feelings," he said, "but I do not think that any grudge will be held over the situation."

Yamashita has been studying the interstate commerce laws of America. He was educated at the University of Nebraska; later he served in Japan as the secretary to the governor of Tokio and then became a high school principal.

Actress Is Daughter Of Ex-Cabinet Member

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The daughter of ex-Secretary Franklin K. Lane of the Interior Department is in town, playing at one of the theatres. Nancy Lane Kaufmann is one actress who is averse to publicity. She is stopping at the Biltmore. However, she hopes to earn plaudits over the footlights.

STATES SWINGING IN LINE BEHIND COOLIDGE'S BOOM

Nation-Wide Endorsement Of Administration Shown In Delegations

States in every section of the nation have pledged Republican delegations to President Calvin Coolidge, according to compilations of national campaign managers for the chief executive who describe this action as "a nation wide endorsement of the present administration."

In the middle west Republicans of Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Nebraska have expressed their confidence in President Coolidge. In the west, Colorado, Idaho, New Mexico and Washington have chosen their place under the Coolidge flag. In the south Kentucky, Virginia, Louisiana, South Carolina, North Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee and Florida have pledged delegates to President Coolidge. In the east, New Hampshire, Maine, Connecticut, New York and Rhode Island have followed the course of their sister states, according to the statement.

Nomination Certain

Already 545 delegates of the 555 necessary to nominate the president on the first ballot have been pledged to the Republican party's candidate and leader, Delaware will name 9 delegates on April 22 and Oklahoma 23 on April 23, New Jersey 31 and Pennsylvania 79. The delegations of all these states are said to have been conceded to President Coolidge. California Coolidge campaign managers have declared that the unanimity of expression by the country's citizenry in demonstrating its confidence in President Coolidge has never been surpassed.

Women supporters of President Calvin Coolidge in Southern California will give a luncheon on May 1 at the Alexandria hotel in Los Angeles in honor of the women who have been selected as Coolidge delegation candidates and whose names will appear on the May primary ballot.

Women in Campaign

Mrs. Addie Garwood Estes, president of the Northern Chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and Mrs. D. E. F. Easton, prominent society and club woman, will come to Los Angeles from San Francisco to attend this meeting, according to Coolidge campaign managers here. Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, first woman delegate to attend a national political convention and 1924 Coolidge candidate; Mrs. Helen Matthewson Laughlin, dean of women at the University of California, Southern Branch, and Coolidge delegate; together with Mrs. Laura Taylor Kelly, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Robert Garner, of

There are Bees. And there are Grasshoppers. The Bees keep Bank Accounts—the Grasshoppers become No Accounts. For the Bee understands "BIZZINESS." He works when he should, the way he should, and with good reasoning. He saves, builds a reserve, co-operates and defends. He is a good business example. Bees sometimes fail and lose their accumulations, like human beings. But their Credit is good. Nature sees to that. And when they meet failure, they set at their task and immediately build up again.

The present "Bee Line" for Industrious People desirous of maintaining Prosperity is at this Bank. Build your Accumulations, preserve them, strengthen your credit. All of which means WORK. But—and this is what we want to get over to you—in the buzz of your activities, we will gladly WORK with you.

With an habitual sense of the Divine Presence, the trials of life are lightened.

—Ephraim Peabody.

NO ARGUMENT AGAINST IT

It not only "can be done"—it IS BEING DONE. They themselves sold, the four majors, forty captains and 160 workers in Glendale's $50,000 advertising fund drive for 100,000 population are finding it easy to sell others. There is no argument that can withstand the facts—and the facts are overwhelmingly on the side of an adequate fund for immediately advertising this city to eastern and middle-western tourists.

Last year $6000 was spent in this way. The records of the Chamber of Commerce show that it brought over $1,000,000 into Glendale, in wealth and added population. Think what $50,000 will do, spent just at the time when Los Angeles is spending $200,000 to bring tourists here during the summer months.

"There is nothing that succeeds like success," properly exploited. Glendale has succeeded, tremendously. From 13,350 in 1920 to over 50,000 at the present time is just grounds for pride—but this city can be carried forward to a population of 100,000 almost over night, rightly and adequately advertised.

If one thing can be said to characterize this $50,000 advertising drive, it is ENTHUSIASM! Attend a meeting of the workers and see for yourself. Enthusiasm is spontaneous combustion of optimism! Did you ever see an enthusiastic pessimist? Enthusiasm is contageous. Don't be afraid to catch it. The only permanent effect will be a swelling of the pocketbook.

When the $50,000 advertising drive workers come around, greet them with a smile AND A PLEDGE! They have a tough job, these three days, working for our interests and giving their business absent treatment. And, when they leave, keep your smile, sell your "tough customers" on the idea. That's how we all can help. Let's SHOW the world what Glendale is made of, as well as TELL the world how fast we are growing!

WHEN IDEAS COME

Mr. Kipling gets his best ideas before breakfast. While he is dressing a whole plot for a story will sometimes flash through his mind in a couple of minutes. Mr. Wells gets his in the watches of the night, and has more ideas strong-boxed away in note-books than one man is ever likely to be able to use in a lifetime. But writers like Kipling and Wells are the exceptions, and with most of us plots are problems hard to start, worse to work out, and in the end the fruits only of strong mental effort and real hard work.

Writers of Southern California do not fare so well. Hollywood is full of scenario writers and would-be authors who labor hard and long for plots. There are more at Pasadena, at Laguna and a few in Long Beach. And Glendale has its share. The sources of plot are numerous and varied. One well-known writer gets all his ideas in the rough from the police court news. His chief trouble is that truth is often so much stranger than fiction that he has, as it were, to water down reality in order that it shall not be too strong drink for his readers. Another, when in search of a new plot, prowls the streets or rides in omnibuses studying the faces of passersby or passengers until he has spotted some unusual type around which he thinks he can weave a romance.

Some writers can only begin a story by conceiving a character around which to write; others find that a big incident or an exciting situation is the center from which to start. One begins at the beginning of a story and works doggedly onwards; another starts with the denouement and travels backwards until the plot is complete. But, boiled down, authorship means hard work, long hours and more hard work.

EXCUSES ARE VALUELESS

It may be true that a certain warm country is paved with good intentions, but excuses are not even good for paving. "I would do my part if I didn't have my money tied up." That's one excuse. "I would help out if they would adopt my plans." That's another excuse. "I am willing to invest in Glendale as soon as I see the factories going up." That is a third poor excuse—one that hardly can be accepted. But, with rare exceptions, there is no one with a home and a small bank account who can afford to make excuses. Excuses don't build cities—they tear them down, or hold them back, at least. But a few excuses will not hold Glendale back. There are too many loyal, hustling, progressive men and women here who declare: "Glendale must go forward." The "if" class, fortunately, is far, far in the minority.

THEY'RE ON THE WAY

Thousands of easterners are on their way overland to California. Many autos will be equipped with radio sets. Now, if Glendale had a powerful broad-casting station, we could send them a radio invitation to call and "look us over" upon their arrival. Just imagine a string of autos along the various highways, and their owners hearing a personal invitation come out of the ether to visit the most rapidly growing city in the United States! That would, indeed, be something new. And who knows but what it will come to pass. Advertising could carry the message to prospective tourists: "Tune in as you cross the summit and catch the spirit and hospitality of Glendale."

If we ever meet an oil stock salesman, of a certain type, we intend to buy a little stock. If he tells us, frankly, the chances are only about one in ten his company ever will pay dividends, and in his opinion the proposition is a big gamble, pure and simple, we may decide to take a chance because of the novelty of his argument. That is, if we have any money lying idle, and if we have no other use for it. "If" is a handy word.

Some men, finding themselves facing a term in prison, do not hesitate to commit suicide. Still another class engages a smart attorney to pick flaws in the state laws. The latter, apparently, is considered to be the best form.

Fashion decrees men should hold their trousers up with belts, even if they be so built there is nothing to hold up the belt. Who first started knocking the old-fashioned—but thoroughly dependable—suspenders, anyway?

Several big oil men have changed the jingle about "Printers' ink making the millions think." As corrected it reads: "Printers' ink sometimes kicks up a terrible stink."

WILL THEY HAVE TO RUIN THE TREE TO GET RID OF THE BEAST?

The Innocent Sufferers

By DR. FRANK CRANE

One of the strange and unjust laws of fate is that for every one person who is disgraced, sent to the penitentiary or executed because he has committed a crime, there are one or more others who suffer, sometimes equally, sometimes more, for his offense; others who are guilty of nothing except that they love the offender, are akin to him or in some way closely connected with him.

It is safe to say that for every convict in the penitentiary, enduring the shame and pain of his confinement, there is one or more outside who, as mother or sister or wife or friend, are being punished as much as the man who wears the stripes.

The other day two men, in an eastern city, were condemned to death for murdering two bank messengers. Shortly afterwards their sister came to a newspaper office and made this plea for herself, her mother and her sisters:

"Tell them to let us be in peace! Tell them to quit hounding us!"

She said that crowds of curious persons would stop in front of her house, they would point scornfully at her mother, who is 53 and almost paralytic.

"They make a spectacle of us," she added, "as if we were strange, wild beasts."

Besides this she told how the bank in which she had her account made her withdraw it just because she was a sister of the condemned men. Furthermore, she alleged that a friend of hers lost a high salaried position as buyer for a millinery house just because the boss overheard her telephoning her sympathy to the family.

What a deal of vicarious suffering there is in the world!

Many a mother is being pushed to the grave by the thoughtless self-indulgence of a wastrel son.

Many a man who has lived honestly all his life, and who has seemed to deserve the reward of a comfortable old age, has been caught in the cogwheel of our intricate humanity and is being ground to pieces by some scoundrel friend who has enmeshed him in his actions.

When the thug gets to shooting in the crowded street, his bullet, like as not, strikes down some innocent bystander.

When the scandalmonger begins to throw rocks into the dirty pool it is the careless passer-by who is often bespattered.

We are all more or less linked with our fellowmen and it is rare that one can fall down without pulling others with him.

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES
(From Hollywood Citizen)

As a matter of policy, the President declares he is opposed to huge campaign contributions.

The people of the country agree with him.

Practically every candidate for President in the past has made the same statement.

And the people have agreed with them.

But still we have the large campaign contributions.

The trouble lies in the fact that campaign contributions are handled by the political machine that recognizes no masters excepting the hands that control the machine, and the hands that control the machine are not the hands of those who hold the public offices or are candidates for the public offices.

If President Coolidge could find a way of forcing the managers of the political machine to make honest reports to the public of the source and amount of every campaign contribution, he would not need to express the wish that there be no large campaign contributions.

There would be none.

But, until we can force the acceptance of higher ideals by political machine mainpulators, we need have no expectations that campaign contributions will come in the main from any other sources than they have heretofore come, namely, from those who are seeking to benefit their selfish, in contrast to the public, interests.

JUST THE DOCTOR
(From Indianapolis News)

Mechanically the doctor reached for the telephone on the table beside his bed. A woman's voice came to him over the wire. He asked a few crisp questions in a voice with traces of the night's sleep still in it. Yes, he would be over right away and prescribe for the baby. Dressing hastily, he picked up his watch, noting that it was 4:50 o'clock as he did so. He did not shiver as he stepped out into the cold air on the way to the garage to get his flivver, for he was used to these plunges from a warm house. When he returned from the trip it was almost 6 o'clock, so he went downstairs and fixed the furnace. By 7 o'clock his wife had given him his breakfast, and he had left to make some calls. He had to move fast to make the early ones in time to keep his office appointments at 10 o'clock.

At 11:30 his office was cleared of callers. He hurried into a one-arm eating place and got a bite. Then came a trip to his hospital patients and more house calls. At two o'clock his office was as full as it had been in the morning. By 4 o'clock he had ushered the last patient out of the office door. Out to make more house calls he went. He dealt in cheer as well as in medicine, knowing that it was as good mentally for the patients as his medicine was physically.

At 5:50 he was home ready for a good dinner, which he ate with only two telephone interruptions. Up from the table, he made two calls before going down to his office at 7 o'clock to see the people who could not come there during the day. Calling it a day at 9 o'clock, he piloted his flivver home. Hanging up his overcoat, he proceeded to adjust his radio set to get the sand out of the music and dropped into an easy chair for his regular evening concert. This was his relaxation, and it was not even vexatious to answer a telephone call or two. He did go half way across town on an urgent call to attend a case of flu before he went to bed. But he was in bed by 12, sleeping lightly, as becomes one who must listen for phone calls. Six o'clock found him ready to get up and start another day.

NOT ENOUGH CONSIDERATION
(From Pasadena Star-News.)

Reclamation should be on business basis, and yet should be upon such terms that the honest settler with small means could afford to live on reclaimed land. The Federal Government, it would seem, could afford to let these lands out on very easy terms, giving responsible settlers virtually their own time in which to make payment. Not enough consideration has been shown the farmers in reclamation territory. The terms, in many instances, have been onerous and exacting. Settlers have not been given chance to bring lands into profitable cultivation and to derive profits from cropping. The settler thus has had to battle not only with adverse farming conditions in getting started on newly-reclaimed lands, but has had to contend with exactions on the part of the government, in demanding burdensome payments. Reclamation farmers should be given a square deal in this.

A Thought That Came Today

By HARVEY E. WESTGATE of Glendale

THE BROOK AND THE YOUTH

A mountain stream, both clear and cool,
Rippled and laughed and sang a song,
And many admired each mirrored pool
As its sparkling waters dashed along;
But man chained up the singing stream,
And went his way with mule and pack,
And the singing brook was just a dream,
Because of the dam that held it back;
And there was formed a stagnant pond,
With slime and scum upon its face,
And the stream that chafed to go beyond,
Became a dank and loathsome place.

But the chains were weak in a certain spot,
And soon there came the gladsome day,
When the stream destroyed the man-made blot,
And the singing brook went on its way.

A youth who dreamed of fairy things,
And carried his laughter here and there,
Looked at the world and tried his wings,
And scattered his joyousness everywhere;
But the world destroyed his youthful dream,
And checked the laughter in his heart,
And taught him to lie and cheat and scheme,
And take of worldly things a part;
And formed upon his once fair face,
As form, indeed, such actions must,
Instead of love and a kindly grace,
A scum of care, and greed, and lust.

But the chain was weak in a certain spot,
And soon there came the gladsome day,
When love destroyed the loathsome blot,

Little Studies —of— Human Nature

KICKING THE FELLOW WHO'S DOWN

One of the most grievous attributes of our old friend, Human Nature, and one that impels us almost to despise him at times is that of rejoicing in another's misfortune, and even worse—"kicking the fellow who is down."

Just why Human Nature should be so depraved is beyond comprehension but true it is that when we hear of our friend Jones having a run of ill-fortune we have a feeling of superiority. Nothing like that could happen to us. If Jones were a smart fellow like us he would have better luck. Those things couldn't happen to Jones if he didn't deserve them and it serves him right too. Maybe he will learn a lesson from his misfortunes.

And then, the unkindest cut of all, to talk about Jones, to add a little to the gossip about him, to refuse him aid, to give him a kick as he lies in the dust instead of extending a hand to help him rise.

Maybe Jones has not only had bad luck but he is accused of wrong-doing. So much the better. Our own goodness and honor shine the brighter by comparison. And then again, we are all a mixture of good and evil. The best of us have a desire to do wrong sometimes. Maybe we have yielded to temptation. Then how great a satisfaction it is to know that Jones has been weak also. Perhaps we have been able to control our evil impulses. Then how glad we are to be reminded that others have temptations too and are not so strong as we are. That's one thing about Evil, it does not establish a fellowship like Good. We have no fellow-feeling for our fellow-sinner, only contempt and censure.

It is egotism that is at the bottom of this peculiarity of Human Nature—unadulterated self-love. We are happy and prosperous and enjoying the regard of our little world. After all, we are of more importance than Jones. Why worry about his troubles? Let's show him that we are his superiors.

Why should old Human Nature reason this way when it is only by the grace of Providence that he is not in Jones' place? It almost makes us ashamed that we are Human beings when we contemplate this tendency of Human Nature to kick the victim of illfortune or of his own wrong-doing. It is a trait to be deplored and one that the individual should try to overcome. Fate may deal any of us a blow and send us reeling in the dust where we may look in vain for a helping hand.

Constipation lays you wide open to other diseases—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Don't take chances with constipation! This terrible ailment can send poisons into your system which may lead to serious diseases. The longer those poisons accumulate, the more dangerous they become. Begin at once to free your system from them.

Eat Kellogg's Bran. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. It is nature's own way to make the intestine function naturally and regularly—for Kellogg's Bran acts exactly as nature acts. It makes forever unnecessary the use of habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, has proved successful when all else has failed. This is because Kellogg's is ALL bran. Doctors everywhere agree that only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective—they recommend Kellogg's Bran.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. You will like it. You will enjoy the delicious nut-like flavor—the exclusive Kellogg flavor.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in wonderful bran muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is the road back to health. It is made in Battle Creek and is served in individual packages at the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

STONE-TILE
PERMANENT CONSTRUCTION

Always Attractive

STONE-TILE, the "wet mix poured" concrete hollow tile, is to be had in units of artistic proportions. Their soft grey tone and pleasing texture give your building a distinctive appearance.

Because of the small size of these units, attractive arrangements and mortar markings are possible. If desired, stucco finish may be applied and will form an indestructible surface which will not crack or peel.

Homes of permanency and beauty are being economically built of STONE-TILE. Ask your contractor for estimates.

DRAMATIC GROUP OF WOMEN HONOR BARD'S BIRTHDAY

Scenes From 'Twelfth Night' Presented at Club by Talented Cast

Recognition of the anniversary of the birthday, April 23, of William Shakespeare was given yesterday at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, where members of the drama department presented before a company of club members and friends scenes from "Twelfth Night."

Mrs. Walter Jones is curator of the department, and the presentation yesterday was made under the able direction of Mrs. H. W. Ralston.

Clever character delineation, artistic costuming, talented acting and directing, all combined in success, which brought many compliments to Mrs. Ralston and those taking part.

Arranged Prologue

Nor is Mrs. Mazie F. Garrett, instructor of the department, to be eliminated by the compliment, for it was she who arranged the clever prologue, cleverly presented by Phoebe Louise Vandewater as nurse, and Felicity Edwards and Randolph Vandewater as the two small children to whom the story of "Twelfth Night" is told.

Later Felicity Edwards, in costume of tiny page, appeared before the curtain at intervals to announce the various scenes.

There were six scenes in all, showing the duke's palace, a scene on the seacoast, the countess' palace.

Heading the cast was Mrs. J. T. Edwards as Duke Orsino, whose splendid Shakespearean style, clear enunciation and dramatic ability carried off the honors of the afternoon. Her work was far above the amateur sphere, and pleasing to witness.

Sharing honors with Mrs. Edwards were Mrs. Chester O. Kling as Viola and Mrs. R. C. Horner as Sebastian, the young twins, both of whom interpreted their parts with understanding and dramatic ability.

Other Performers

Special mention should also be made of Christine and Virginia Edwards, who gave 'cello and violin music during the first scene; Mrs. Colin Cable as Maria; Mrs. H. C. Vandewater as Countess Olivia; Mrs. O. E. Von Oven, Valentine; Mrs. J. C. Waite, sea captain and officer; Mrs. Helen Ward, lady in waiting; Mrs. Eugene Brown, priest; Mrs. H. W. Hudson, Antonio; Mrs. H. W. Ralston, officer; Mrs. William Nash, Jr., Feste.

Mrs. Nash appeared as Feste, the jester, and entertained with a group of songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Roberta T. Young.

Mrs. Ernest Carr is to becongratulated on her work as chairman of costumes.

Following the program punch was served in the palm room, where an informal social hour was enjoyed.

Many compliments were paid Mrs. Walter Jones, curator of the section, for her direction of the artistic stage settings.

Engineer Advocates Bond Issue Support

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—At a meeting of the City Club J. W. Reagan, chief engineer of the county flood control district spoke of the underground water situation and the flood control problem in the county, and advocated the voting of $35,300,000 in bonds to carry out the program of dam building, and other protective work adopted by the supervisors. He declared that since we have no natural reservoirs, we must build them in order to save our flood water.

The combined storage capacity of the dam to be built will be about 300,000 acre feet, and they will put 1,000,000 acre feet of water in our gravel beds, Reagan said.

The After House

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Copyright, 1924, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

THE STORY

DR. RALPH LESLIE, at his graduation from medical school, finds that he is penniless, his only possessions being a dress suit, a box of obsolete medical instruments inherited from a grandfather doctor, and an incipient case of typhoid fever. During his convalescence he becomes interested in the river shipping visible from his hospital window and decides to go to sea as a sailor to regain his strength. His classmate, McWhirter, working in a drug store until his hospital appointment is ready, has been fitting out the drug room of the yacht Ella, which lies at anchor in view of Leslie's window, and he gets Leslie a letter to the captain.

II—THE PAINTED SHIP

The Ella had been a coasting vessel, carrying dressed lumber to South America, and on her return trip bringing a miscellaneous cargo—hides and wool, sugar from Pernambuco, whatever offered. The firm of Turner & Sons owned the line of which the Ella was one of the smallest vessels.

The gradual elimination of sailing ships and the substitntion of steamers in the coasting trade, left the Ella, with others, out of commission. She was still seaworthy, rather fast, as such vessels go, and steady. Marshall Turner, the oldest son of old Elias Turner, the founder of the business, bought it in at a nominal sum, with the intention of using it as a private yacht. And, since it was a superstition of the house never to change the name of one of its vessels, the schooner Ella, odorous of fresh lumber or raw rubber, as the case might be, dingy gray in color, with slovenly decks on which lines of seamen's clothing were generally hanging to dry, remained in her metamorphosis, still the Ella.

Marshall Turner was a wealthy man, but he equipped his new pleasure boat very modestly. As few changes as were possible were made. He increased the size of the forward house, added quarters for the captain and two mates and thus kept the after house for himself and his friends. He fumigated the hold and the forecastle—a precaution that kept all the crew coughing for two days, and drove them out of the odor of formaldehyde to the deck to sleep. He installed an electric lighting and refrigerating plant, put a bath in the forecastle, to the bewilderment of the men, who were inclined to think it a reflection on their habits, and almost entirely rebuilt, inside, the old officers' quarters in the after house.

The wheel, replaced by a new one, white and gilt, remained in its old position behind the after house, the steersman standing on a raised iron grating above the wash of the deck. Thus from the chartroom, which had become a sort of lounge and card-room, through a small barred window it was possible to see the man at the wheel, who, in his turn, commanded a view of part of the chartroom, but not of the floor.

The craft was schooner-rigged, carried three lifeboats and a collapsible raft, and was navigated by a captain, first and second mates, and a crew of six ablebodied sailors and one gaunt youth whose sole knowledge of navigation had been gained on an Atlantic City catboat. Her destination was vague—Panama perhaps, possibly a South American port, depending on the weather and the whim of the owner.

I do not recall that I performed the nautical rite of signing articles. Armed with the note McWhirter had secured for me, and with what I fondly hoped was the rolling gait of the seafaring man, I approached the captain—a bearded and florid individual. I had dressed the part—old trousers, a cap, and a sweater from which I had removed my college letter. McWhirter, who had supervised by preparations, and who had accompanied me to the wharf, had suggested that I omit my morning shave. The result was, as I look back, a lean and cadaverous six-foot youth, with the hospital pallor still on him his chin covered with a day's beard, his hair cropped short, and a cannibalistic gleam in his eyes. I remember that my wrists, thin and bony, annoyed me, and that the girl I had seen through the operaglasses came on board, and stood off, detached and indifferent, but with her eyes on me, while the captain read my letter.

When he finished, he held it out to me.

"I've got my crew," he said curtly.

"There isn't—I suppose there's no chance of your needing another hand?"

"No." He turned away, then glanced back at the letter I was still holding, rather dazed. "You can leave your name and address with the mate over there. If anything turns up he'll let you know."

I folded the useless letter and thrust it into my pocket. The captain had gone forward, and the girl with the cool eyes was leaning against the rail, watching me.

"You are the man Mr. McWhirter has been looking after, aren't you?"

"Yes." I pulled off my cap, and, recollecting myself—"Yes, miss."

"You are not a sailor?"

"I have had some experience—and I am willing."

"You have been ill, haven't you?"

"Yes—miss."

"Could you polish brass, and things like that?"

"I could try. My arms are are strong enough. It is only when I walk—"

But she did not let me finish. She left the rail abruptly, and disappeared down the companionway into the after house. I waited uncertainly. The captain saw me still loitering, and scowled. A procession of men with trunks jostled me; a colored man, evidently a butler, ordered me out of his way while he carried down into the cabin, with almost reverent care, a basket of wine.

When the girl returned, she came to me, and stood for a moment, looking me over with cool, appraising eyes. I had been right about her appearance; she was charming—or no, hardly charming. She was too aloof for that. But she was beautiful, an Irish type, with blue-gray eyes and almost black hair. The tilt of her head was haughty. Later I came to know that her hauteur was indifference; but at first I was frankly afraid of her, afraid of her cool, mocking eyes and the upward thrust of her chin.

"My brother-in-law is not here," she said after a moment, "but my sister is below in the cabin. She will speak to the captain about you. Where are your things.

I glanced toward the hospital, where my few worldly possessions, including my dress clothes, my amputating set, and such of my books as I had not been able to sell, were awaiting disposition. "Very near, miss," I said.

"Better bring them at once; we are sailing in the morning." She turned away as if to avoid my thanks, but stopped and came back.

"We are taking you as a sort of extra man," she explained. "You will work with the crew, but it is possible that we will need you—do you know anything about butler's work?"

I hesitated. If I said yes, and then failed—

"I could try."

"I thought, from your appearance, perhaps you had done something of the sort." Oh, shades of my medical forebears, who had bequeathed me, along with my library, what I had hoped was a professional manner! "The butler is a poor sailor. If he fails, us, you will take his place."

She gave a curt little nod of dismissal, and I went down the gangplank and along the wharf. I had secured what I went for; my summer was provided for, and I was still seven dollars to the good. I was exultant, but with my exultation was mixed a curious anger at McWhirter, that he had advised me not to shave that morning.

My preparation took little time. Such of my wardrobe as was worth saving, McWhirter took charge of. I sold the remainder of my books, and in a sailor's outfitting shop I purchased boots and slickers—the sailors' oilskins With my last money I bought a good revolver, second-hand, and cartridges. I was glad later that I had bought the revolver, and that I had taken with me the surgical instruments, antiquated as they were, which, in their mahogany case, had accompanied my grandfather through the Civil war, and done, as he was wont to chuckle, as much damage as a three-pounder. McWhirter came to the wharf with me, and looked the Ella over with eyes of proprietorship.

"Pretty snappy looking boat," he said. "If the nigger gets sick, give him some of my seasick remedy. And take care of yourself, boy." He shook hands, his open face flushed with emotion. "Darned shame to see you going like this. Don't eat too much, and don't fall in love with any of the women. "Good-bye."

He started away, and I turned toward the ship; but a moment later I heard him calling me. He came back, rather breathless.

"Up in my neighborhood," he panted, "they say Turner is a devil. Whatever happens, it's not your mix-in. Better—better tuck your gun under your mattress and forget it. You've got some disposition yourself."

The Ella sailed the following day at 10 o'clock. She carried nineteen people, of whom five were Turners and their guests. The cabin was full of flowers and steamer baskets.

Thirty-one days later she came into port again, a lifeboat covered with canvas trailing at her stern.

What was in the lifeboat? Read the succeeding chapters of this story to find out. Tomorrow—I Unclench My Hands.

Lot Purchasers Seek $300,000 in Law Suit

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Three hundred thousand dollars damages are demanded in three actions filed against George W. Hughes and others who are said to have sold more than 250 lots in the Chateau Thierry tract, Long Beach, by purchasers, who also ask a restraining order to prevent final payments held in escrow from being turned over to the subdividers. When the purchases were made, the plaintiffs say, the tract was outside the Long Beach city limits. Since then it has been annexed. The sales contracts provided that all improvements would be installed by the subdividers, it is alleged. They have not been completed, and it would now cost $300,000 to do the work, it is claimed.

Plaintiffs include E. G. Copeland, H. B. Ruggles, A. C. Anderson, E. F. Buffam and others. The total sales of lots amounted to more than $600,000, it is said.

Memory Parade Will Feature Vets' Meet

PASADENA, Apri 22. — A "memory' parade will feature the annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in this city June 26, 27 and 28, according to plans announced. The "memory' parade will be held on the second day of the convention sessions.

ATWATER SCHOOL PUPILS TO HOLD MAY DAY SPORTS

Festival and Bazaar Will Be Held Under Auspices of P.-T. A. Members

The first day of May is devoted by the residents of the growing community known as Atwater Park, to their public schools.

The new school building, completed in the early part of the year, is not only a matter of pride architecturally, but serves as the center of their social and civic life.

Already the eleven classrooms are filled to their capacity, and the three bungalows which housed the school the first year are still used for the domestic science and manual training rooms.

Festival and Bazaar

So successful was the May festival and bazaar conducted last year by the Atwater Parent-Teacher association and the pupils and faculty that it is planned to hold a similar affair this year on May 2.

The bazaar will be in charge of the Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. E. V. Bacon is president. The program for the festival will be arranged by Miss Rosalind Gates, principal, and the teaching staff of the school.

A floral parade will open the program at 10 o'clock. The pupils will enter decorated vehicles of all kinds and description, including wagons, bicycles, airplanes, coasters and scooters. The "foot division" will provide for those in fancy costume or representing historical characters.

Route of Parade

The parade will proceed from the schoolhouse west on Atwater street to Brand boulevard, thence north to Perlita, from Perlita to Tyburn, from Tyburn to La Clede and back to the school.

In the afternoon a pupils' program will be given, each room contributing a number. The Maypole dance will be a feature of the program, and athletic sports will be sandwiched in.

A baby show, which includes the examination of all children under school age, is also on the program.

Dinner will be served at noon and supper and a picture show will provide amusement for the evening.

Names Chairmen

Mrs. E. V. Bacon is general chairman of the bazaar, and the following chairmen will have charge of the various booths: Dinner committee, Mesdames How ard and Kortz; hot dogs, Mesdames Pennock and Gillette; grab bag, Mesdames Martin Ressick and Cooper; useful articles, Mesdames Wray, Vaughn and Lupo; fancywork, Mrs. Chapman; aprons, Mrs. Holcom; candy and popcorn, Mrs. Kendal; ice cream, Mrs. Daniels; pies and cakes, Mrs. Hammil; coffee and sandwiches, to be appointed; sodawater, Mrs. Nolan; flowers, Mrs. Byrd; baby show, Mrs. St. Clair; pet show, Mrs. Larsen; picture show and assembly, Mrs. Walshe; exhibit, Mrs. Loyd.

The contest for queen will begin Wednesday of this week, and will be a popularity contest, and not a money-making contest, as last year.

Two big paper drives have made finances easy for this association, which has accomplished much in improvements for the school.

National Guard Will Have Aviation Unit

SACRAMENTO, Appril 22.—Authority from the War Department to begin at once organization of a complete division of an air service unit for the California National Guard, today was received by Adjutant General R. B. Mittelstaedt, commander of the guard.

San Francisco, Sacramento, San Jose and Los Angeles are bidding for the aircraft company.

The War Department will supply the unit with eight Curtiss airplanes, hangars and other equipment. It also will give the services of eight trained mechanics and provide funds for various accessories.

Maintenance of the air unit will require an expenditure of $35,000 per annum, General Mittelstaedt estimated. This sum will be contributed from federal and state treasuries.

General Mittelstaedt will arrive in Los Angeles today to confer with guard officials and city representatives relative to the air unit, which will have a peace time strength of 21 officers and 90 enlisted men. The personnel in time of war will be increased to 39 officers and 228 enlisted men.

Plea to Cancel War Debt Seen as Menace

LONDON, April 22.—The Paris Matin's open advocacy for cancellation of war debts in return for acceptance of the Dawes reparations plan has aroused fears in British official circles that the report may yet be ditched.

Ever since the report was published Britain has been fearful that France would attempt to bring up the question of war debts in connection with the reparation settlement. It is understood this was the reason why Premier Macdonald had been so anxious to have the United States come out openly in support of the Dawes report.

Premier Macdonald knows it is impossible for Great Britain to cancel war debts unless the United States is willing to reopen the funding agreement. Official circles believe this is unlikely.

Briefs From Los Angeles

By Southland News Service.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT FAILS

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Brice Pagget, 60 years old, colored, becoming despondent, shot himself directly over the heart this morning at 9 o'clock, but, owing to a powerful bone structure in the ribs, the bullet was deflected and falling through his clothes wedged in his sock. Not satisfied with this miraculous escape he shot himself through the lower left leg, and the bullet struck against his shin and stayed there. He is being held for investigation.

$5000 DAMAGE CLAIM

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Alexander Pantages will have his damage claim against the city considered by the council today. He claims that the disposal of sewage into Ballona creek was carried to the lagoons and channels in the city of Venice and that his property was damaged by the odors, gases and chemicals. The theater magnate claims $5,000.

PLANS TO FUMIGATE

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Dr. E. R. Pascoe, acting health commissioner of the city, will make a request before the city council today, for an appropriation of $2,000, to be used in fumigating all milk handlers in the county, in connection with the hoof and mouth disease.

WOULD KEEP ENGINEER

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The council is considering a letter from J. Challen Smith, secretary of the Sawtelle Chamber of Commerce, requesting that they be allowed to keep permanently the present engineer and staff, who are making a topographical survey of the new sewer system and the matter of street improvements.

INSPECT NEW HIGHWAY

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—State Highway Commissioner N. T. Edwards and the advisory committee for Southern California, today are going over the Hauser contract for the new highway from Santa Monica to Oxnard and are making a tour of the project.

TO UNIFY PORT LINES

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The Los Angeles harbor commission will call a special meeting this week to consider plans for the unification of railroad operations between Los Angeles and the harbor district. It is proposed to extend the Harbor Belt line across Anaheim road to the proposed terminal of the Santa Fe which is located in the Wilmington district, it was announced at the city hall this morning.

REPORT TWO DEATHS.

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Two deaths were recorded at the General hospital Monday. W. N. Park died from the effects of an automobile accident. Julia Marshall passed away as the result of heart trouble.

HEAVY TRAFFIC TOLL

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Receiving hospital attaches were overworked here Sunday. Four dead, a dozen injured in traffic accidents was only part of their woe. Five people were shot and otherwise wounded in fights, principally among the Mexican and colored populace. A Long Beach man bumped his head, a San Pedro man dropped a package on his foot, and forty drunks were given the sobriety test.

Sentence Witness to Three-Day Jail Term

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Charles B. Walker, Pasadena, missing state witness in the case against Dr. W. C. Schley, prominent Pasadena physician charged with manslaughter, was arrested at Pasadena on Saturday and was sentenced to serve three days in the county jail by Judge Hahn for contempt of court. Walker was intoxicated at the time of his arrest, according to officers. Dr. Schley is held in connection with the death of Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Walker following an automobile accident. Walker was scheduled to appear in court yesterday morning as the star witness in the criminal trial.

Champion Eater Dies In Texas Hospital

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—Leon Battalago, champion eater of Lander county, is dead. Battalago was the only patient in the county hospital for a year and he seemed to have become obsessed with the idea that every meal he sat down to was to be his last. A breakfast of 8 or 10 eggs, half a loaf of bread, four or five cups of coffee, topped off with 15 to 20 hot cakes, was a common performance for him. Not long ago the matron missed three pies. Battalago told her he had felt a "little hungry" and had eaten them. The county physician said Battalago's death was due to overeating.

Luncheon Club Rule Adopted in England

LONDON, April 22.—Lady Astor has mixed gatherings at many of her functions, and she has found that many of the guests have never met each other. She has therefore resorted to labeling her guests and gives each guest a badge bearing his or her name, also their principal interest, business or profession.

MUSIC PROGRAM AT LUNCHEON TO L. A. CLUB WOMEN

Mrs. Leroy Bosserman Is Hostess to St. Cecilians At Glendale Home

Mrs. Leroy Bosserman of 614 Suoth Central avenue was hostess yesterday morning at an 11 o'clock musical and noon luncheon of the St. Cecilia club of Los Angeles. The company numbers forty club members and guests artists.

Mrs. Bosserman was assisted during the luncheon hour by her mother, Mrs. Lyman B. Ashton, and her aunt, Jane Breedland. Her sister, Mrs. George P. Shidler, served at the coffee table, and Mrs. William Bogan poured tea.

The delightful program given in the morning included:

DISCOUNT RUMOR OF STARS' BREAK

Stork's Approaching Visit to Leatrice Joy Halts Separation Talk

For Southland News Service

HOLLYWOOD, April, 22.—Rumors, which have been ripe for many months, regarding the imminent separation between Jack Gilbert, Fox star, and his wife, Leatrice Joy, Lasky film favorite, will undoubtedly be entirely repudiated now when it is known that in a few weeks the stork will hover over their happy Hollywood bungalow. Simultaneously with becoming a mother, Leatrice will be made a star and there are rumors that just as soon as the new member of the family has acquired its sea-legs, Leatrice will be sent to Europe to star in a mammoth production. Leatrice is a New Orleans girl and hopped into the films by way of a beauty contest in which she won first prize. She will appear in "Triumph" in Los Angeles next week.

Married, Is Rumor

The fact that Agnes Ayres, Lasky film star, and Ricardo Cortez, Lasky's newest "sheik," have admitted their engagement, does not prevent their friends declaring that they are already married and are merely postponing the announcement of their wedding until young Cortez appears in a leading role in a spectacular new picture soon to be produced.

It is said that less than a year ago young Cortez was dancing at the Cocoanut Grove and was seen by the wife of one of the Lasky producers who was so impressed by his grace and dramatic talent he was immediately engaged by the Famous Players and made a phenomenal rise toward stardom. Agnes Ayres, who recently described in detail the sensations arising from the kisses of six separate screen stars, including Rodolph Valentino, Conrad Nagie and Thomas Meighan, will now have an added bead on her osculatory rosary.

Woman Is Missing as Court Hearing Nears

LONG BEACH, April 22.—Mrs. Helen LaMaie, 38, 426 East Seaside boulevard, who recently charged her husband with a plot to sell her for $50,000, was reported today at the sheriff's office as mysteriously missing. She was to have appeared in court on April 11, but investigation revealed that she has not been seen for two months.

ONE MAN SHOT

ONTARIO, April 22.—A gambling game is said to have caused the shooting scrape which resulted in Felipe Mendoza going to the general hospital, shot through the hips, and Leon Mercado going to the jail, in lieu of a $1000 bail. Nothing could be learned as to the real reason for the shooting, but it is alleged that the fiery tequila had a deal to do with fanning their anger to the flaming point.

METEOR HUNT

RIVERSIDE, April 22.—A party of scientific minded young men, under the leadership of Charles Kennedy of this city, plan on going into the desert behind Lake Arrowhead some time this summer in search of the flaming meteor that fell last Wednesday. Two surveyors saw its flight and reported that its size seemed to approximate the moon and that it carried a tail behind it like a comet. These meteors are of great interest to scientists, as from them can be learned the physical properties of the heavenly bodies.

FRATERNITY WAR

POMONA, April 22.—It was learned from one of the high school principals who visited the state convention for them at Santa Cruz that a number of former members of college organizations made the request that college fraternities refuse admittance to any applicant who had ever belonged to what is known as an "outlaw" fraternity.

LURE IS LOST

MEXICALI, April 22.—Since the embargo was placed upon gambling by Governor Rodriguez, the number of visitors from Los Angeles has steadily fallen off, it was learned here today. The lure of the clicking ivory ball, the drone of the croupiers, the flash of the three-card monte man's cuffs, the satisfying thrill of calling "keno," the faro dealer's automatic gesture, all these things drew the unwary and the adventurous, but now with only bridge whist and mah jongg to attract him, the spasmodic gambler thinks home is better than a 100-mile drive.

BRAWLEY PLEASED

BRAWLEY, April 22.—The residents are still in a state of pleased and purring complacency over the report of a technical man in the United States geological survey.

"Here is one of the most impressive encroachments made on nature by man," the report runs, in part. The Salton sea and Imperial valley as a whole are given an exhaustive treatment, not only scientifically, but with an eye to the poetic and aesthetic aspect of the "desert which blooms like a rose."

FIGHT EMBARGO

EL CENTRO, April 22.—Mayor Fawcett of this city will arrive in Washington, D. C., tomorrow to confer with officials there upon the injustice of the embargo put on our produce by eighteen states. The continuance of this state of affairs will work havoc, particularly with Imperial valley, where the cantaloupe crop is expected in a month. The secretary of agriculture will be given the facts and asked to take steps to have the hysterical injunction against our products removed.

Oregon Plans Survey Ere Lifting Embargo

SALEM, Ore., April 22.—Oregon will make an immediate and thorough investigation of the hoof and mouth disease in California before taking any action toward lifting present embargoes on California products.

Governor Pierce gave this answer to a delegation of business men from the southern state who were here to plead for minimization of quarantine regulations imposed by Oregon authorities. He appointed a commission of five men headed by Dr. W. H. Little, state veterinarian, to make the survey.

The California committee will proceed north and endeavor to have Washington and Idaho officials lift their embargoes. It includes S. B. McKevitt, Sacramento orchardist; H. W. Lewis, Santa Ana, walnut grower; C. N. Hawkins, Hollister stockman, and Joshua Schandeling, San Francisco

Foreign Affairs Receive Attention In Detail As Coolidge Outlines Program

NEW YORK, April 22.—The text of President Coolidge's address before members of the Associated Press at their annual luncheon today follows:

The gathering and publication of news has a deeper significance than is sometimes realized. No large enterprise can exist for itself alone. It ministers to some great need, it performs some great service, not for itself, but for others; or failing therein, it ceases to be profitable and ceases to exist. This is the case with the Associated Press. It assembles each day the events of each part of the world and transmits them to every other part. The fundamental reason for this lies in the fact that it is felt to be of vital importance to each man, and each community, to know what other men and other communities are doing.

What Faith Means

Faith in the American people means a faith in their ability to form sound judgments, when once the facts have been presented to them clearly and without prejudice.

This conception is not exactly at variance with, but certainly supplementary to, the long cherished American ideal of the independence of the individual and the independence of the nation. Complete independence means complete co-ordination and co-operation. From this principle arises the oft-repeated law of service—we can help ourselves only as we help others. A knowledge and an understanding of others becomes absolutely necessary, in order to make our ideals practical. One of the pre-eminent requirements of our country at the present time is to re-establish and emphasize in the public mind this law of service. The danger to America is not in the direction of the failure to maintain its economic position, but in the direction of the failure to maintain its ideals.

Serving Others

The principle of service is not to be confounded with a weak and impractical sentimentalism. It is warranted in considering self to the extent of recognizing that it is justifiable to accumulate and hold the resources which must necessarily be used to serve ourselves, our own household and our own nation. But it does not stop there. It recognizes also the necessity of serving others, and when the need arises for meeting a moral requirement, of making individual and national sacrifices sufficient to maintain the cause of righteousness.

Some of the recent developments in Washington have revealed the dangers to which I refer in a very dramatic way. Beginning nearly ten years ago our country entered a period when conditions were altogether artificial and abnormal, culminating in the strained and lurid events of our participation in the war. The old standards of action were either suspended or entirely cast aside. Totally inconceivable amounts of money were raised and expended with a lavishness which now seems like some wild nightmare.

Conditions Develop

Notwithstanding the great wave of patriotic fervor which swept over the land; notwithstanding the tremendous sacrifices which the people in every walk of life made, and stood ready to make, almost unconsciously these conditions developed, which I mention, not for any purpose now to criticize, where the least scrupulous became the greatest gainers and a considerable part of our population was thrown into a morbid financial state of mind, which even the best intentioned did not wholly escape. The desire for profits and more profits kept on increasing and the quest for easy money became well nigh universal. All of this meant an attempt to appropriate the belongings of others without rendering a corresponding service.

Vicious Selfishness

This condition began to subside years ago, but it left along its course a trail of vicious and criminal selfishness and a general credulity to rumors of large sums of money demanded and paid.

From all of this sordidness the affairs of government, of course, suffered. In some of it a few public officers were guilty participants. But the wonder is not that this was so much or so many, rather that it had been so little and so few. The encouraging thing at present is the evidence of a well nigh complete return to normal methods of action and a sane public opinion. The gravity of guilt of this kind is fully realized and publicly reprehended. There is an exceedingly healthy disposition to uproot it altogether and administer punishment wherever competent evidence of guilt can be produced. That I am doing and propose to continue.

Another phase of lingering extravagance is revealed by the bills pending before Congress. The country as a whole is demanding with great vigor every possible relief from the burden of every unnecessary public expenditure. Yet, notwithstanding this, minority groups of one kind or another, and organizations, sometimes almost nation-wide in their ramifications, are making the most determined assaults upon the public treasury.

Law of Service

I am advised by the director of the bureau of the budget that careful computation discloses that there are bills pending, not including the bonus, which would increase the expenditures of the federal government for next year by about $3,600,000,000. Their assumption by the government would mean nothing less than financial disaster to the nation. The law of service must be applied to this situation. At present our country does not need a greater outlay of expense, but a greater application of constructive economy.

The same state of mind is revealed again in the determined resistance which is made to the adoption of a sound method of taxation. The main argument of the opposition can all be reduced to the supposition that the general public can be relieved of taxation and a greater proportion of taxes laid on the rich. It seems as though the public is assumed to desire to have the advantages of a government without paying its part of maintaining it. Besides being convinced that such a result is utterly impossible of accomplishment, I am even more firmly of the belief that it misrepresents the general attitude of the public mind. Moreover, the government itself, in order to be successful, and all of those connected with it, must put all of their energies upon what they can do for the people, not upon what they can get out of them.

Must Have Reductions

Notwithstanding the failure of majority of the Congress up to the present time accurately to comprehend and expeditiously to minister to the need of taxation reform, I believe that the requirements of economy and reduced taxes will be met in a way not inconsistent with the great resources of our country.

I know that with few exceptions the management of our government has been and is in honest and competent hands, that its finances are sound and well managed. Fundamentally, America is sound. It has both the power and disposition to maintain itself in a healthy economic and moral condition. But it cannot do this by turning all its thoughts in on itself, or by making its material prosperity its supreme choice. Selfishness is only another name for suicide. If America wishes to maintain its prosperity, it must maintain its ideals.

Need Understanding

When we turn to our foreign relations, we seek the working out of the same laws. If there is one ideal of national existence to which America has adhered more consistently than to any other, it has been that of peace. The main support of peace is understanding. It is a matter of accurate information by one government and one people about other governments and other peoples. There is likewise involved the same law of service. If our country is to stand for anything in the world, if it is to represent any forward movement in human progress, these achievements will be measured in no small degree by what it is able to do for others.

Although indirectly interested by reason of our commerce and more especially because of the debts due to us, in having a European settlement, our government felt that the fundamental questions involved in all the discussions were the direct political concern of Europe. Our policy relative to the debts due to us from European countries was well known, and we refused to submit to these discussions. This never meant that America was not willing to lend its assistance to the solution of the European problem in any way that did not involve us in their purely political controversies, whenever opportunity presented.

American Proposal

In December of the year 1922 our secretary of state, Mr. Hughes, set out the American proposal in an address which he delivered at New Haven. That proposal has now become historic.

Mr. Hughes expressed the belief that competent citizens in private life would be ready to lend their assistance. This position was consistently maintained and its correctness was finally demonstrated when Mr. Dawes, Mr. Young and Mr. Robinson were invited by the reparations commission for that purpose, and consented to serve.

The finding of the experts, which is known as the Dawes report, has recently been made and published. It has been favorably received by the reparations commission. It is gratifying to understand that the allies are looking upon it with full sympathy and Germany has expressed a willingness to co-operate in the execution of the plan. There appears to be every reason to hope that the report offers a basis for a practical solution of the reparations problem.

Credit to Hughes

If this is secured, the credit will be due to the secretary of state, Mr. Hughes; to President Harding for adopting it and supporting it, and to the three Americans and their assistants. Our countrymen are justified in looking at the result with great pride. Nothing of more importance to Europe has occurred since the armistice.

Part of the plan contemplates that a considerable loan should at once be made to Germany for immediate pressing needs, including the financing of a bank. I trust that private American capital will be willing to participate in advancing this loan. It is notorious that foreign gold has been flowing into our country in great abundance. It is altogether probable that some of it can be used more to our financial advantage in Europe than it can be in the United States. Besides this there is the humanitarian requirement which carries such a strong appeal, and the knowledge that out of our abundance it is our duty to help where help will be used for meeting just requirements and the promotion of a peaceful purpose.

Offers Foundation

When this adjustment is finally made and has had sufficient time of operation to become a settled European policy, it would lay the foundation for a further effort at disarmament in accordance with the theory of the Washington conference.

In the event that such a condition develops, it becomes pertinent to examine what can be done by our own country, in co-operation with others, further to rid ourselves and the rest of the world of the menace and burden of competitive armaments and more effectively insure the settlement of differences between nations, not by a recourse to arms, but by a recourse to reason; not by action leading to war, but by action leading to justice. Our past experience should warn us not to be over-confident in the face of so many failures, but it also justifies the hope that something may be done where already there has been some success, and at least we can demonstrate that we have done all that we can.

Harding's Proposal

As a result of American initiative there already is in existence The Hague tribunal, which is equipped to function wherever arbitration seems desirable, and based in part on that and in part on the league, there is the international court of justice, which is already functioning. A proposal was sent to the last Senate by President Harding for our adherence to the covenant establishing this court, which I submitted to the favorable consideration of the present Senate in my annual message. Other plans for a world court have been broached but up to the present time this has scemed to me the most practical one.

Proposals have also been made for the codification of international law. Undoubtedly something might be accomplished in this direction.

No Definite Formula

I do not claim to be able to announce any formula that will guarantee the peace of the world. There are certain definite things, however, that I believe can be done, which certainly ought to be tried, that might relieve the people of the earth of much of the burden of military armaments and diminish the probability of military operations. I believe that among these are frequent internatinoal conferences suited to particular needs. It would appear to be impractical to attempt action under present conditions, but with a certain and definite settlement of German reparations firmly established, I should favor the calling of a similar conference to achieve such limitations of armaments and initiate plans for a codification of international law, should preliminary inquiries disclose that such a proposal would meet with a sympathetic response. But the main hope of success lies in first securing a composed state of the public mind in Europe.

Can Take Lead

It is my firm belief that America is in a position to take the lead in this direction. It is undoubtedly too much to suppose that we hold very much of the affectionate regard of other nations. At the same time we do hold their respect. Our position is such that we are trusted and our business institutions and government considered to be worthy of confidence. If there is disappointment in some directions that we do not enter alliances with them, it is more than overbalanced by the knowledge that there is no danger that we shall enter alliances against them. It must be known to every people that we are seeking no acquisition of territory, and maintaining no military establishment with unfriendly and hostile intent. Like our political institutions all of this is a powerful example throughout the world. Very many of the nations have been the recipients of our favor and have had the advantage of our help in some time of extremity. We have no traditional enemies. We have come to a position of great power and great responsibility.

Our first duty is to ourselves. American standards must be maintained, American institutions must be preserved. The freedom of the people politically, economically, intellectually, morally and spiritually must continue to be advanced. This is not a matter of a day or a year. It must be of generations, it may be of an era. It is for us here and now to keep in the right direction, to remain constant to the right ideals. We need a faith that is broad enough to let the people make their own mistakes. Let them come unto knowledge and understanding by their own experience. Little progress can be made by merely attempting to repress what is evil; our great hope lies in developing what is good. One schoolmaster is better than a legion of bailiffs. These are our guarantees of internal peace and progress.

Of what nations are at home depends what they will be abroad. If spirit of freedom rules in their domestic affairs, it will rule in their foreign affairs. If the will of the world be evil, there is no artifice by which we can protect the nations from evil results. Governments can do much for the betterment of the world. They are the instruments through which humanity acts in international realtions. Because they cannot do everything, they must not neglect to do what they can. But the final estimate of peace, the complete maintenance of good will toward men, will be found only in the righteousness of the people of the earth. Wars will cease when they will that they shall cease. Peace will reign when they will that it shall reign.

High Lights of Coolidge's Speech

"The danger to America is not * * * * in failure to maintain its economic position, but in * * * * failure to maintain its ideals."

"A few public officials were guilty of participation in it (sordidness in government) but the wonder is not that there were so many, * * * * but that there were so few."

"Our country does not need a greater outlay of expense, but a greater application of constructive economy."

"Notwithstanding the disturbing character of recent revelations * * * * notwithstanding the failure of negotiations up to the present to minister to the need of taxation reform, I believe the requirements of economy and reduced taxes will be met in a way not inconsistent with the great resources of our country."

"With few exceptions the management of our government has been and is in honest hands, its finances are sound and well managed."

"A nation that is morally dead will soon be financially dead. The progress of the world rests on courage, honor and faith."

"If America wishes to maintain its prosperity it must maintain its ideals."

"Our country refused to adhere to the covenant of the League of Nations, with a decisive rejection that I regard as final."

"Nothing of more importance to Europe has occurred since the armistice than the Dawes report."

"I trust it may commend itself to all Europepan governments as a method by which * * * * they can arrive at a stable adjustment of the vexatious problem of reparations."

"I trust that private American capital will be willing to participate in advancing the contempplated loan to Germany."

"The world court proposed by Harding seems up to the present time the most practical one."

"With a definite settlement of the German reparations problem I should favor the calling of a conference (similar to the Washington conference) to achieve further limitations of armament and initiate plans for codification of international law * * * *."

"Our first duty is to ourselves. American standards must be maintained. American institutions must be preserved."

"We need a faith that is broad enough to let the people make their own mistakes."

"One newspaper is better than many criminal laws. One schoolmaster is better than a legion of bailiffs. One clergyman is better than an army with banners. These are the guarantees of peace and progress."

"We seek concord with all nations through mutual understanding."

"Wars will cease when they (the people) will that they should cease. Peace will reign when they will that it shall reign."

Noted Foreign Guests Visit in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The Hotel Alexandria has among its guests C. Moore of the north of Scotland and his beautiful daughter who is planning to have a moving picture test made before she leaves.

Among its other foreign guests of note is Svend Weinan of Copenhagen and Karl Lindhorst of Berlin, whom it is said was at one time interested in the Hugo Stinnes affairs.

Mr. Stinnes recently died and it is hoped that Mr. Lindhorst may be able to give Southern California a more intimate view of that great financier.

Glendale Student to Direct Convocation

Vernon Jenkins of Glendale is in charge of the open air convocation, to be held at Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis, "Campus week-end." Forum, all-school honor society, will announce its pledges at this convocation.

This week-end is intended as a time for fostering college spirit. Many athletic events will be held, including a rack meet, two baseball games and a tennis match.

CANADIAN RANCH OWNER EXPLAINS FIGHT ON PLAGUE

Few Animals Slaughtered In Northern Herds; Wage War at Start

MONROVIA, April 22.—"In my opinion the indiscriminate slaughter of animals attacked by the foot-and-mouth disease is altogether unnecessary," states Frederick E. Kenaston, retired Canadian capitalist and extensive ranch property owner, spending the winter in this city.

Mr. Kenaston discussed the situation freely. He now has a herd of 500 cattle at Winnipeg, Canada, and has had a broad experience with the foot-and-mouth disease, extending over a period of fifteen years.

"This disease," he contends, "Is a filth disease, as near as it can be ascertained, and is caused by confining a herd in too small an area. Cattle in the open range, with an abundance of territory in which to road are rarely ever affected, because clean grass and clean earth tend to keep the herd in a healthy condition.

Avoid Small Pens

"Where a large herd is penned in a small area, where they tramp around in the same foul soil, this filth collects in the hoof and is allowed to remain there until infection takes place. This is the initiation of the disease, but when a cow once gets it, it is readily transmitted to others.

"We handle this disease at its inception and have been able to save 99 per cent of those affected, and have done so within two or three weeks' time. The first evidence of the disease is detected in the walk of the cow. She goes slowly, as though walking were a painful difficulty, and appears almost lame. This is due to a dejected condition. When this is detected, we segregate her from the rest of the herd and treat her hoof with a strong antiseptic, also administering a laxative.

"If the poison rises to a point where the cow will not eat, then we know that we cannot save her and the only thing is the slaughter pen, but this condition is only reached in about 1 per cent of the cases that I have handled in my own herds.

"The experience that I have had is the common experience of people around me, and I can say that, as a rule, the dairymen of my neighborhood do not lose 5 per cent of their herds. I have never seen the disease in so violent a nature as is shown here in southern California, but I have never permitted my stock to go to a point of getting a blistered mouth.

Decries Slaughter

"In my opinion, the wholesale slaughter, which has been going on here, is little less than a tragedy. The officials seem to have but one object in view, and that is to stamp out the disease.

"The idea of handling the difficulty from an economic standpoint does not seem to have appealed to them. Of course, it can be stamped out by killing the herds, but I have found no difficulty in handling it without such destruction of property.

"If a man has a small herd and is careless and indifferent about treating the disease, then slaughter becomes necessary, but the destruction of these big herds, where every precaution can and should be taken, is nothing less than a tragedy."

President Coolidge Talks to Publishers

will among nations. Another purpose of a conference is the further limitation of competitive armaments. Much remains to be accomplished in that direction. It would appear to be impractical to attempt action under present conditions, but with a settlement of German reparations firmly established, I should favor the calling of a similar conference to achieve such limitations of armaments and plans for codification of international law, should preliminary inquiries disclose that such a proposal would meet with sympathetic response.

"But the main hope of success lies in first securing a composed state of public mind in Europe.

"It is my firm belief that America is in a position to take the lead in this direction."

Domestic Affairs

Turning to domestic affairs, the president assured the editors that "fundamentally America is sound," despite the agitated state of the public mind in recent months over the investigation scandals, the resignation of cabinet officers and the bickering in congress over legislation.

He described the lust for profits that the war engendered and then said:

"From all this sordidness the affairs of government suffered. In some of it a few public officers were guilty participants. But the wonder is not that this was so much or so many, rather that it has been so little and so few.

Normal Methods

"The encouraging thing at present is the evidence of a well nigh complete return to normal methods of action and a sane public opinion. There is an exceedingly healthy disposition to uproot guilt and administer puishment wherever competent evidence can be produced. That I am doing and propose to continue."

The president also made a plea for economy and thrift. He declared there are bills now pending in congress that if passed would increase the government's expenditures $3,600,000,000 this year. He spoke of "minority groups and organizations making determined assaults on the treasury" but did not name them. Some of his hearers believed this was a reference to the bonus.

He again endorsed the Mellon plan of tax reduction and decried the opposition to it as a "supposition that the general public can be relieved of taxation and a greater proportion of taxes laid on the rich." Such policy, he said, "would be an economic injury and an impossible principle."

Officers Tell Need Of Port Protection

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Major George Ruhlen, Jr., Fort McArthur commandant, Capt. Paul Perigord of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, and Lieut. Clarence P. Kane of the U. S. Army air service, stressed the importance of adequate protection for Los Angeles harbor in addresses before the members of the Los Angeles sector, Association of the Army of the United States.

Two Men Scalded in Boiler May Succumb

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Trapped in a boiler at the Hammond Lumber company plant and terribly scalded when a pipe containing live steam burst, William Cheffers and Albert Field were perhaps fatally burned yesterday. The men were rushed to the receiving hospital where they were treated for first, second and third degree burns. Field was the most severely burned and little hope was held for his recovery.

Fresno County Places Ban on Wool from L. A.

FRESNO, April 22.—A partial embargo went into effect yesterday on all wool and sheep coming into Fresno county from Los Angeles county. Dr. John F. McKenna broadcasted warnings to all buyers of livestock to beware of southern produce, because the purchase of any commodities from the south might lead to the spread of the dreaded hoof and mouth disease, and the beginning of an infection of this county.

NAZIMOVA BUILDS HOLLYWOOD HOME

Striking Decorative Effects Stress Personality of Emotional Star

Madam Alla Nazimova, internationally famous screen star, has just completed a fifteen-room concrete residence in Hollywood which she designed and partly built with her own hands. The architecture is a harmonious composite of old Italian, Spanish and Russian and the interior is done entirely in Chinese red with touches of black and gold. The red, she believes, will produce vitality and vivacious conversation. Her bedroom is jade green with Chinese yellow which she feels will bring poise, peace and good fortune. Her bath room has a black marble floor and bath tub and jade green tile walls.

Adolph Zukor, president, and S. R. Kent, general manager of distribution, will head the delegation of Famous Players-Lasky home office executives who will arrive in San Francisco April 26, for the annual sales convention, and then will come to Los Angeles to spend two days at the Lasky studio, the West Coast producing plant of the organization.

Pierre Gendron, popular juvenile, has been engaged to play in the new Ernst Lubitsch production which started today at the Warner Brothers' studio.

According to telegraphic information received toddy at Paramount's West Coast studio, Irvin Willat is now putting the final titles in his production of Zane Grey's "Wanderer of the Wasteland," which Willat has been editing at the Boston laboratories of tthe Technicolor Process.

Glenn Hunter, who will play the title role in James Cruze' forthcoming production of "Merton of the Movies," will arrive in Hollywood late this month and production work will start the first week in May.

Hold Up Land Claims Of Northern Pacific

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The secretary of interior is directed to withhold patents to the Northern Pacific railroad company of additional public lands claimed by the railroad under its land grants by a bill which passed the house late yesterday.

A special commisson of five senators and five congressmen is authorized by the bill to investigate the claims of the railroad to four million acres of land and report with recommendations to congress.

Capitalist Named in Suit for Heart Balm

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Edward St. Alban, wealthy capitalist was made defendant in a $100,000 breach of promise suit filed by Mannie Logan. St. Alban promised to wed her early this year, she claims.

EAGLE ROCK

BOARD ENDORSES ISSUE OF BONDS

Water and Power Projects Approved by Chamber's Executive Body

The executive board of the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the water and power bonds which are to be voted on May 3. Their endorsement includes propositions 3, 4, 9, 10 and 12, authorizing the city of Los Angeles to (3) incur an $8,000,000 bonded debt for municipal improvement, (4) incur a bonded debt of $21,000,000 for taking over the electric system, (9) adopt the ordinance, as already approved, paying not more than $45,000 for condemnation proceedings in re the above, (10) adopt the ordinance, as already approved, for compensation in re the above, and (12) contract with the United States government for an equitable share in the benefits of the proposed Colorado river dam.

The annual C. of C. membership drive is proceeding aggresively, reports Chairman G. A. Hege of the committee in charge, which comprises as co-members A. S. Wilson, W. L. Mann, H. H. Maxson, Dr. M. M. Null and H. G. Warren.

To add zest to the contest a ladies' team has been organized and is going to give battle to the nine men teams. It will be captained by Mrs. E. W. Thompson. The leaders for the men's teams are: W. L. Mann, C. L. Suits, S. H. Smith, J. T. Bailey, Dr. Null, C. W. Young, Emil Swanson, Jesse H. Taylor, R. L. Woodhouse.

"Dress Parade" Honors

First honors in the children's "Dress Parade" last Thursday, in which nearly 900 pupils of the local schools participated, were awarded to the B-3 class, which rated 194 per cent out of a possible 200. The A-4 class was second with 191 per cent. Each member of the committee judged the students by grades, according to the above points, the committee consisting of four faculty members—(not room teachers) and four parents, appointed by the P.-T. A., parents and teachers grading upon a basis of 100 each, making the highest grade possible, 200.

Shirley Allen, well known local community worker, is soon to leave for Washington, D. C., to take an active position with the American Forestry association as a forester. He is known to be thoroughly skilled in this line of work. For the time being his family will remain in Eagle Rock.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, April 23, will mark the observance of Founders' Day at Occidental college. An appropriate program will be given, starting at 11 o'clock in the morning, when trustees, faculty, students, alumni and friends will gather on the campus. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon Dr. William G. Monroe of Harvard university will deliver an address and Mrs. W. S. Young will receive an honorary degree. The new library building will be officially received from the donor, Mrs. Matthew Norton, at 4 o'clock.

Brotherhood Banquet Date Is Postponed

Announcement is made that the Brotherhood banquet of the First Methodist church, which was to have been held Friday night, April 25, has been postponed on account of the fact that "Bob" Shuler, who was to make the address, will be unable to be present at that time.

The executive committee will hold a short business session immediately after the Wednesday night prayer service. Gould H Warren, secretary, urges all committeemen to make a special effort and be in attendance at this time.

MONTROSE

STARTS JEWELRY STORE NEAR BANK

Business District Growing As Many Firms Locate In Thriving City

Theo. Belanger, well-known business and club man, is out again after being operated on for appendicitis. Mr. Belanger, though still weak, is very glad to be home again.

Another new business has been opened in Montrose, this time a watch repairing and jewelry establishment. A. Claiborne has taken quarters at this time in the office at 903 Montrose avenue, next to the bank. Not many more of the business houses need to be represented as there is practically everything here now but a moving picture show.

The Montrose hardware firm, which has just moved into their new quarters, held a formal opening on Saturday. This firm has built up their business in the past three years through courteous treatment to the customers. Service is the watchword of this house.

Balloons, pencils and broom holders were distributed as souvenirs to the visitors while punch was served till 9 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Young feel that the opening was a huge success.

VALLEY COUNCIL FORMED AT MEET

Foothill Towns Committee Organize to Promote Good of District

At a meeting of the combined committees representing the Verdugo City Association of Commerce, the Montrose Chamber of Commerce, and the La Crescenta Improvement association, held in the offices of the Verdugo City Association of Commerce, the organization adopted as its official title "La Crescenta Valley Council" and also decided to put into operation a rotating system of meetings and chairmanships, at their meetings that are to be held every two weeks.

H. N. Fowler, of Verdugo City, presided last night and the next meeting, to be held May 5 in the Montrose schoolhouse, will be directed by James L. Brown, while Mark Collins of La Crescenta will preside at the meeting to be held May 19 in the La Crescenta school.

The need for additional bus service between the valley and Glendale was discussed, and it was decided to support a movement to secure a feeder line into the valley from the end of the electric line in Glendale, which, it is claimed, would afford quick transportation to Los Angeles.

Surveys District

O. A. Smith, general traffic manager of the Pacific Electric, held a conference with a number of the leading business men of Verdugo City last week and made a survey of the district. Another conference will be held in the Pacific Electric offices in Los Angeles next Monday, when the maps that Mr. Smith is preparing will be submitted to the representatives of the organization, and the further plans for the development of the valley will be discussed.

A permanent secretary will be employed by the La Crescenta Valley council.

Among the projects that are under way now is a May party to be held on May 3 at La Crescenta schoolhouse, when games, dances and other entertainments will be held. A committee from each district will be on hand to introduce the residents of each region to those from the others, in order to bring them together on a footing of better acquaintance than has prevailed in the past.

PLOT TO SEW UP RADIO, IS CLAIM

Music Composer's Counsel Says Phone and Wire Concerns In Pact

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Telephone, telegraph and electric and wireless corporations work together to "sew up" the radio and make profits for each other, Nathan Burkan, counsel for the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers yesterday told a sub-committee of the Senate patents committee.

The sub-committee is conducting hearings on the Dill bill to exempt radio broadcasters from song copyright restrictions.

Burkan pictured the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the Westinghouse Electric and Radio Corporation of America companies as all working together.

Telegraph Tolls

"After a program," Burkan said, "you hear the announcement 'Send us a wire and tell us how you liked the songs and what songs you want to hear.'

"What's that for?"

"To make money for the Western Union Telegraph company," he said.

"Broadcasting is done for the advertising in it. The broadcasters charge $2,500 for ten minutes of advertising."

Frank A. Boland, counsel for the National Hotel association, told the committee that the music composers maintained a "trust" and that they were guilty of "price fixing."

Building Report Shows Country-Wide Activity

There has been no fluctuation in the price of materials and labor since the first of the year, according to a bulletin received this morning by H. C. Vandewater, municipal building superintendent, from S. W. Straus & Co., of New York City, covering the first quarter of 1924.

Labor has enjoyed a steady increase in wages from December, 1922, to January 1924, the raise in the maximum being 17 per cent. On the other hand, from April 1923, until January, 1924, material has dropped 12 per cent, according to the building record, so that the increased cost of labor is somewhat offset by the decrease in material.

A chart covering the last five years shows that the peak for labor was reached in the early part of 1920. It costs approximately 42 per cent less to build a house now than it did then.

"The bulletin shows a normal building activity throughout the entire country," stated Mr. Vandewater this morning. "The east has been particularly strong. This report verifies the earlier bulletin that Glendale stood third in southern California, fifth in the state and seventh on the Pacific coast.

"Building permits for April are today within $75,000 of the total for April, last year, and we will exceed the 1923 mark by a good margin, according to present indications."

SUNLAND

GUESTS ARE TOLD OF ENGAGEMENT

Betrothal of Popular Girl Announced at Party At Percy Home

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Lois Percey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Percey, pioneer residents of Sunland and Deane F. Swindell, Los Angeles architect, was made at a party at Miss Percey's home. Miss Percey was assisted in entertaining by her mother and sister Lecne and by Misses Juanita Claycomb and Marie Oliver, who rendered vocal numbers. Games and refreshments added to the pleasure of the event. Among those present were: Misses Eleanor Perkins, Ruth Spafford, Alice Rose, Helen Woods, Gladys Flagg, Nina Hessenflow, Juanita Claycomb, Marjorie Bowers, Ethel Thomas, Marie Oliver, Lucille Anderson, Nyda Dana, Gladys Kellar and Mrs. Anna Percey of Glendale, Miss Beulah Warren of Eagle Rock City, Miss Margaret Crosland and Mrs. C. H. Swindell, Los Angeles, Misses Viola and Gladys Shelby, San Fernando, and Mrs. Roberta Thomasson, Tujunga.

The Afternoon Sewing club met last with Miss Catherine Crews at her home on Sherman avenue. Music and refreshments at 4 o'clock culminated an enjoyable afternoon.

Papers on Missions

Instrumental and vocal solos, reading of papers on California missions and readings in Spanish will feature the next meeting of the Monte Vista Woman's club Friday, April 25, at the school auditorium at 2:30. Refreshments will also be served.

A new banner for the Monte Vista district was one of the subjects discussed at the last meeting of the Monte Vista Parent-Teacher association. Plans for the future development of the newly-formed reading circle were also discussed at length. Election of officers will be held next month at the regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Peete of First street have moved to Pasadena to make their home.

Mrs. McNabb has announced that recent dinner given for the benefit of the piano fund for the new Baptist church netted $125. The committee in charge hopes to have the piano ready when the church building is finished.

Building Contract

Rudolph Henry, president of the board of school trustees of the Monte Vista district, has let the contract for a new $8000 residence on his property at Hill street and Walnut drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rice attended the charter presentation dinner of the South Pasadena Kiwanis club.

Mrs. Frank Benton and two children have gone east for an extended visit.

Mrs. Lippincott and son Clark, who have been spending the winter in Los Angeles and Hollywood, spent the week-end at their Sunland home.

Surveyors Complete Work on New Highway

Location of the route to be followed by South Los Angeles avenue, running from La Crescenta valley to the Oakmont Country club, is practically completed, according to H. N. Fowler, president of the Verdugo City Association of Commerce, who reports that the county surveyors who have been laying out this short cut between the valley and Glendale have finshed their work.

Guthrie to Lecture Before Realty Board

The eighth lecture in the educational course that the Glendale Realty board is conducting will be delivered at tomorrow's meeting in the Presbyterian church by Charles B. Guthrie, his subject being the Valuation of Real Estate.

Starlings prefer building their nests in old buildings rather than in the places provided by nature.

BURBANK

EASTER CONCERT GIVEN BY BAND

Citizens Gather at Edison School Sunday, Enjoy Musical Program

Several hundred people gathered in the Thomas A. Edison school auditorium Easter Sunday afternoon, where they enjoyed a concert by the Municipal band. And afterward, on the grounds in front of the schoolhouse, George Mason with his camera made a permanent record of the proceedings, giving the younger generation in particular an opportunity to immortalize their 1924-model spring duds.

Prior to the band concert, there was registration by states, supervised by D. A. McNeil of the band. William Lower, solo clarinetist of the Santa Monica and Sawtelle bands, was heard to advantage and Ray McIntosh sang "The Palms."

Coming Events

Tonight, April 22, at 8 o'clock the Whittier "Men's Chorus" will offer an entertainment in the High School auditorium, under the auspices of the Burbank Choral club.

On Friday night, April 25, the Chamber of Commerce membership banquet will be held. April 27 to May 3 is Boys' Week. And May 3 to 11 is Music Week. Programs for this latter event are being arranged and the committee announces that a Mexican program will be featured the night of May 8 and an Italian program the night of May 10.

The Burbank Choral club has appointed a committee comprising George Foster, B. A. Bradley and Dr. Haseltine, to prepare a ticket for the election which takes place in May.

The new Baptist church is to be in Benmar Hills, as a result of recent action taken by the church board in accepting from B. W. Marks the gift of a plot of ground at the intersection of Walnut, Fifth and East streets. This property is accepted with the understanding that a building to cost not less than $30,000 is to be erected thereon, and while the congregation does not plan to built this for an indefinite time, it will ultimately do so.

In the meantime, a parsonage will be erected on ground purchased on the west side of Fairmount road between Fourth and Fifth streets. The church will sell its lot on Magnolia avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets, which was originally purchased for a parsonage. The home for the pastor will be a bungalow to cost about $5000, and steps for its erection will be taken in the reasonably near future.

Army Chaplain Visits Sister In Glendale

On short leave prior to sailing for China to take charge of the chaplain division of the American forces at Tientsin, China, Chaplain Berton F. Bronson, his wife and three sons, are in Glendale, visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Byron B. Hoff, of 518 West Harvard street.

Chaplain Bronson was stationed at Vancouver Barracks, across the river from Portland, for five years. Before the war he was a pastor of a church in Seattle, and served during the war as a chaplain. He will sail May 5 from San Francisco on an army transport for his China post, where he will remain at least two years, and possibly three years.

He is a member of the Rotary club and during his stay here expects to attend meetings of the Glendale Rotary club.

Mrs. Warren Roberts Not Club Candidate

The name of Mrs. Warren Roberts did not appear on the ballot considered today by Tuesday Afternoon clubwomen, because owing to other duties Mrs. Roberts deemed it wise to withdraw as a candidate for the vice presidency. Her withdrawal was presented a number of weeks ago and regretfully accepted by the club members.

The reason for this action on her part was that with her many duties as worthy high priestess of Omar Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, she would be unable to carry additional duties of an officer of the club, should she be elected.

That's All

Greetings To Pacific Fleet
La Follette Now Candidate
Los Angeles' Bond Issue
Preach Prosperity, People!

By Gil A. Cowan

All hail the return of the Pacific fleet to Los Angeles harbor!

Southern California people should feel justly proud that Uncle Sam's battle wagons have their haven here in the southland where the thousands of young men from all over the country can see the glories of this wondrous country and inform the folks "back home" as to just what California is.

And it should be the duty of every patriotic citizen to see that the sea fighters are extended every bit of hospitality they are due. Mothers who had sons in the service will undoubtedly feel for the boys who are back from three months in southern waters where the annual midwinter maneuvers take place.

If you know any of the sailors—you Glendale folks—invite them out to dinner. Have them as your guests for a day or two. The stories they can tell, the appreciation they will show, will be worth more than any pecuniary loss. Remember, too, that every last one of them is human, just like the rest of us, even if "orders is orders" and they are attired in a spotless uniform of their service.

We have with us today in national politics as a candidate for president Senator Robert La Follette. Wonderful how the old Wisconsin war horse sticks with the precarious game of politics.

Last time we heard of him he was sick, right in the midst of the oil investigation in which he was instrumental in bringing out of the "dark room." Yea, Senator Bob had a great deal to do with "spilling the beans" and "tipping the teapot."

Fact is, whenever there is excitement in the Senate you will find La Follette if you look closely enough at the central figures of the vortex. Small in stature, his gray hairs still bristling with fight, he presents an appearance of dynamic energy, too dynamic perhaps for his own good and that of the Republican party to which he has been more or less tied.

Now that he is going to head a ticket all his own, according to the news dispatches of the day, look out for more dynamite.

Did you read the first chapter of Mary Roberts Rinehart's thrilling story "The After House" which started in The Glendale Evening News last night?

If you did not, save the issue and start the serial, for it is the very best money can buy. And how you will appreciate the mystery, love, romance and life threaded together by this famous woman writer.

We can do no more than commend this story to you.

Los Angeles is going to vote on several bond issues. Yes. Yes. And the customary mudslinging between the various interests is under way. It has not been so personal, perhaps, as in previous campaigns, yet it reveals to the reader just what to expect when it comes to "putting over" anything which will make Southern California bigger and better.

Less bickering and more able direction of activities on the part of the powers that be (which does not mean the puppets elected to public office) would work wonders. Southern California today needs leadership. Big men refuse to serve in public office when they are uncrupulously attacked, and little men usually warrant the attacks. So there.

Confidence and courage of the various communities of Southern California in their own future are essential at this time when the ebb tide between seasons makes its most marked effect on the southland. Also, in view of the economic situation, created by the closing of the mountain resorts, the tightening of mortgage money and the political year's effect on business, there should be every effort made to force this section ahead while the nation looks askance.

Conditions, generally, are good and better than the stranger might suspect. Building in most communities is going ahead apace while there is a good demand for building sites. Port business along the coast is good, the shipping showing practically no loss on account of the foot and mouth disease except in those commodities transported by rail to nearby states.

From a manufacturing and industrial standpoint the prospects of Southern California never were brighter. Development should not be abated in the least during the balance of the year. And investors should not hold the least fear but that business is normal.

Bankers and business men, service clubs and other organizations should take the time and trouble to preach prosperity. No bearish inclinations should be permitted, although a survey of several southland cities the last few days has revealed to the writer an inclination on the part of pessimists to make use of all of California's misfortune—the hoof and mouth disease—to injure their own interests.

We may well face the facts frankly. Southern California is withstanding the shock and holding its own, which is more than could be said of many communities faced by similar crises.

All that is necessary now is the courage and confidence to carry on—on to the ultimate goal of most populous and productive area on God's green earth.

LA CRESCENTA

'LARK ELLEN' TO SING WEDNESDAY

Concert at School House to Be Under Auspices of Women's Club

Wednesday evening, April 23, the great "California Lark," Madame Ellen Beach Yaw, will make what will probably be her last appearance in this valley. Coming here under the auspices of the Women's club, Madame Yaw will bring with her, her flutist, Jay Plou, who will give some charming numbers. Madame Yaw has the highest range of any living singer and is coming to La Crescenta solely from sentiment, sentiment that causes this artiste to remember the happy childhood hours when she sang out in the hills of this valley.

It is generally understood that Lark Ellen will, no doubt, return abroad after her appearance here as she has been unable to go for some time, as the ill-health and death of her venerable mother kept her from returning to Europe. Tickets are on sale for this concert at Salmacia's Music shop in Glendale, Mesdames M. S. Collins, C. A. Haskins, the La Crescenta Drug store, library, Tujunga Drug store, Montrose bank and Drug store. Every one is advised to procure tickets early, as no one will be guaranteed a seat who has no ticket for La Crescenta school auditorium.

Plan Wedding Fete

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wadey and family of Honolulu Acres, accompanied by Mrs. F. W. Brown and family of Monstrose spent Easter in Los Angeles, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Wadey, Sr., who are also the parents of Mrs. F. W. Brown. This visit was also to celebrate four family members' birthdays which this year fell on Easter day. Plans were made at this time for a fitting party to celebrate the Golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wadey, Sr., when over 100 guests expect to be present. This event will occur in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turck kept open house on Sunday for about 200 guests who came to celebrate the completion of the beautiful new home just erected by the Turcks as their permanent home.

"Seeknofurther," as the new home is called, is on the Spanish type and situated as it is on the rise of the hills above Michigan avenue, commands a view of the entire valley.

Guests were greeted at the door by the charming hostess, who graciously conducted her visitors through the beautiful rooms, assisted by her husband. Quaint homey stories connected with the sentiment of this and that room were told the guests, adding much to the pleasure.

Perhaps some of the most interesting features of this home are the spacious balcony fitted up as an outdoor room, the wonderful roof which is also to be fitted up as outdoor room. Both these places command probably the best view of the entire valley possible. From the south one can see the ocean, to the north the beauties of the old Sierras and to the east and west spreads the entire valley under one's gaze.

Another interesting bit in this home is the exquisitely beautiful mission tile in the arch of the fireplace—it is so typically Californian and so restful in tones and theme.

The hangings at the windows, and these are many, as there is practically no outside wall space without them, are hung in mountain blue, having been chosen by Mrs. Turck to blend in with the blue of the surrounding mountains. The golden room as the north bedroom is called is a delight as the hangings here are just the shade to give a truly Californian golden glow to everything. Being a true homemaker, Mrs. Turck took great pleasure in showing her guests her china which has come down through the family and is, strange to say, just what is right for this particular dwelling.

Flowers in Abundance

Flowers were everywhere, brought by loving friends as tokens of the friendship held for Mr. and Mrs. Turck by so many. In fact, guests came from Los Angeles, Burbank, La Canada, Flintridge, Glendale, Montrose and La Crescenta.

Assisting Mrs. Turck in receiving and serving were Mrs. Colin Cable, Mrs. Ann Davis Thomas, the Misses Sayre, Mrs. Margaret Morris Gale with Miss Ida Longyear at the coffee urn, Mesdames Sam Woolwine, Jr., and Sam Ward presided at the punch bowl.

The guests were entertained during the afternoon and evening by vocal solos rendered by Miss Helen Sayre and Miss Louisa Cowan Biglow, accompanied by Mrs. A. Toplift. The last guests left at 11:30 p. m.

Wednesday afternoon, April 23, will be club day for members of La Crescenta Women's club. There will be an interesting program and every member should attend.

Prisoner of Chinese Bandits Found Slain

HONG KONG, April 22.—One of twenty Chinese passengers kidnaped by pirates during a raid on the British steamship Lailee, on April 12, was found murdered today. He had been stabbed and shot in the back. Pinned to the clothing was a note saying that the victim had been killed because no ransom was forthcoming.

ENROLLMENT FOR EVENING SCHOOL OVER 1200 MARK

Room for More Students In Almost Every Subject, Says Principal

Over 1200 students have enrolled this year for work in the Glendale Evening High school, which re-opened Monday, April 21, reports A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal of the Glendale Union High school. The classes are held in the afternoons and from 7 until 9 o'clock nightly, at the Harvard High school, and are entirely free and open to all who wish to improve their education, no fees or examinations being required for entrance.

At the present time there is an opportunity for enrollment in practically every course offered, Mr. Ferguson states. The school will remain open from now until the end of the school year in June. Practically all the courses are so adjusted that students may start at any time they choose, yet Mr. Ferguson urges that those who plan availing themselves of the opportunity do so as soon as possible, so as to have time for enough class work to accomplish something definite.

Have Waiting List

In the commercial line, commercial English, salesmanship, commercial arithmetic, shorthand, typing, bookkeeping and penmanship are all open for new registration. There has been a great demand for this work during the present year and for a considerable portion of the year it has been necessary to have a waiting list for many of these subjects. Any student who enrolls at the present time will be given first chance next September. This will be true, not only in the commercial, but in all other subjects offered in the evening school.

Mechanical and architectural drawing have proved so popular this year that an extra teacher was necessary in order to carry on the work and while this was considered to be a temporary measure, it has been found necessary to continue it throughout the year to date. There are a few openings now for those who wish to take up this work.

Forge, machine shop, auto shop, carpentry and woodwork are all offered in the mechanical line and have been remarkably consistent in their ability to hold the continued attention of those who have enrolled. At the present time, the forge and auto shop in particular are open for registration. The auto shop work is something that is practical to any one who owns an automobile and gives intelligent instruction in keeping a machine in good order. It is not an over-technical course intended for mechanics but is general in its nature and of very practical use to any one who is interested in an intelligent study of the machine that they use every day.

In Americanization and naturalization, as well, there will be new classes starting this week. This work is offered, as all other courses, free of charge to any one who wishes to enroll in them. The Americanization work is for foreigners who are learning the language and the naturalization course leading up to a certificate which is credited by the naturalization department so that little or no examination is necessary after this course in order to secure the final papers.

The millinery course has been offered daily five times a week. On Monday and Wednesday nights from 7 to 9 and on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, from 2:30 to 4:30. Over 100 students have been enrolled in this work and classes have been very crowded. It is probable that there will be some vacancies in this department and any one who is interested in this line of work is passing up a splendid opportunity if they do not take advantage of the splendid instruction which is being offered, Mr. Ferguson feels.

Sewing and dressmaking are offered on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and will continue for the remainder of the year. There is room for more students at the present time in this course.

In physical education, classes are offered for both men and women and in the men's gymnasium work, the plan of last year will be followed in organizing an indoor baseball league which will play on the high school filed. A great deal of interest has been aroused in this and last year the league was continued throughout the summer. In the women's class work it has proved very popular and a regular attendance shows that this is meeting with the approval of those who are enrolled in it.

The lip reading class meets at the same hour as formerly, 2:30 to 4:30 on Mondays and Wednesdays and is open for new registrations beginning at once.

CONVENTION TO ELECT OFFICERS

Glendale P.-T. A. Delegates To Attend Two-Day Meet In Los Angeles

Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale Federation, Parent-Teacher association, and a group of delegates from the various Glendale associations are to spend Thursday and Friday in Los Angeles in attendance at the annual convention of the First District, Parent-Teacher association and Congress of Mothers in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Glendale will also be represented by Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., who is state chairman of child labor.

The convention opens at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and is of special interest because it will be featured by the election of officers on Friday. Officers of the district are elected every two years, and since Glendale has several women prominent in district affairs, the election returns will be anticipated with interest because of the possibility of some honors coming to Glendale.

Officers' Report

On Thursady the time will be devoted to devotions, reports, greetings from state officers, music and an address by Harold Stoner, executive secretary of the University of Southern California.

On Friday the polls will open at 9 a. m. and close at 1:30 p. m. The address of the day will be given by Dr. James A. Blaisdell, president of Pomona college, and Dr. R. Price of the Child Guidance clinic. There will also be community singing, reports and the announcement of election returns.

Every Parent-Teacher association belonging to the district is entitled to send one delegate for every twenty-five members.

BOTTLE CARBONATED DRNIKS

If you are in a place where there may be a doubtful or dangerous water supply, or if you are going to such a place this summer, take along some good grade of bottled carbonated soft drinks.

In a series of studies on carbonated beverages which were bottled by reliable houses, it was found that these carbonated drinks were quite free from bacteria. I got this data from a report by the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research in the February number of the American Journal of Public Health. The work done by this institute shows that it was the carbonation and not merely the pressure effect which had to do with the sterilization of the carbonated waters. A little something of the mode of study may be interesting to you.

Different sets of bottles of both the non-carbonated and the carbonated ginger ale were innoculated with germs of typhoid and the colon germs. These samples were stored at room temperature, and, later, bacterial counts were made. In the non-carbonated ginger ale, it was found that the disease germs had rapidly multiplied to the extent of becoming highly dangerous. In the carbonated ginger ale, however, the germs had been killed and the beverages were practically sterile.

It was found that while the sterilization is due to the carbon dioxide, or carbonation, the higher the pressure the sooner the bacteria were killed. The pressure that was used in the experiments was 70 pounds, and that is the pressure used in the bottling of certain high class carbonated drinks. These research workers say that 70 pounds is a practical pressure and should be used by all bottlers of soft drinks, as an additional safeguard to the public.

They also call attention to the fact that the bottler should not rely wholly on the carbonation to insure the sanitary condition of his products. For, if contaminated waters were used and happened to be insufficiently carbonated, the result would be a dangerous beverage; and even if high carbonation were used, the beverage might be dangerous if it were consumed immediately after bottling.

Dirty Money

Cheer up, Dearios! We don't have to worry about getting diseases from handling money, for the possibility of infection from dirty bills and coins is not very great, according to the bacteriologic investigations of Hilditch. That's comforting, isn't it?

Apparently there is something in the composition of the printed bill that acts unfavorably to bacterial life. Bank tellers and others who have to handle considerable soiled money, apparently are not more prone to early graves than others. Whether these germ destroying qualities of paper money are due to the ink or to some other component of the bill, has not been determined. Metals have a germicidal action, so that the coins, also, are not dangerous.

Someone has facetiously said that only lovers should kiss on the lips because the rising temperature resulting sterilizes the germs. The accumulation of a few bills and coins might have somewhat the same effect as a lover's kiss on a lot of us.

Of course, we don't want to be foolhardy now about taking in money. We mustn't think we can handle money that has just been handled by someone suffering from some infectious disease, without a certain degree of danger. Best to keep our fingers out of our mouths and nose and wash our hands before talking food—not only after handling money, but on all occasions.

She's 'Cal' Coolidge, Too

Meet MISS FRANCES BALL COOLIDGE. Yes, she's a cousin of President Calvin Coolidge and, of course, her fellow students at the College of Oratory at Boston call her "Cal."

Of course the obvious campus nickname for Miss Frances Ball Coolidge, cousin of the president and pretty student in the Emerson College of Oratory in Boston, is "Cal," and that is the one fellow students have given her. Like her cousin she is a native of Vermont. She claims descendancy from Martha Washington, wife of the first president, and Jonathan Edwards, the great New England missionary to the Indians.

Miss K. H.—To reduce a double chin, throw the head back on the shoulders, and then open and close the mouth a number of times. Drop head forward on chest and roll it around the shoulders in a circle, from the right and then the left. Massage under chin starting from the lower part of throat and work upward, always taking care to lift all the facial muscles. End the treatment with an ice rub or by dashing very cold water over the skin. If you are too stout all over, a general reduction will help your efforts in ridding yourself of the double chin.

N. B. L.—Bobbed hair continues in favor. With a full face I should think the part on one side would be the most becoming way for you to wear it.

A. B. C.—To bleach superfluous hair with peroxide, apply it just after bathing. And be sure that your peroxide is fresh. It loses strength if kept for a long time, after it has been uncorked.

Troubled—The preparation that you mention is a trade mixture, so I do not know what it contains. You should be advised by your doctor before you do anything about the goiter. Iodine is antiseptic and it is used also to relieve soreness.

American Girl—The girl who is 17 years of age, height five feet, four inches, should weigh about 120 pounds. Your weight should be 110 pounds.

Massage your scalp every day to make the hair grow.

Thank You—Consult the doctor about your condition. You have only aggravated it through taking these daily purgings. Possibly there is nothing much that is wrong, as a continually coated tongue could come from a sluggish action of the liver that the laxative medicines are not reaching.

Your weight is correct at 113 pounds, for five feet height and 19 years of age.

A. B. C.—There is no way to make your eyes larger, and it is best to leave your nose alone. You can make yourself attractive in spite of these defects, as you can always cultivate a clear skin and a fine head of hair, not to mention any number of graces through keeping yourself in health and good spirits. Women look better when they cease being conscious over a few small defects in their appearance.

Auburn Hair—The walnut stain you refer to is made by steeping domestic walnuts, or just the shells or hulls, in hot water until there is strong infusion of the brown stain. It wears off the hair much faster than a dye does, but it is harmless to hair or to the scalp.

Tomorrow—Oatmeal For The Hands.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

Miss Anna W. Williams, whose profile adorned the Bland silver dollar coined forty-six years ago, has retired after forty years of service in the Philadelphia schools. Miss Williams achieved a success in kindergarten work that was recognized beyond the city in which she taught.

Four telephones were placed in service in Chicago in 1877 as an experiment. Recently the 700,000th phone was installed in the office of W. R. Abbott, president of the company.

MRS. LONGFIELD

Mrs. Edith Longfield, of Fort Wayne, Ind., is handling the gubernatorial campaign for Mayor Lewis S. Shank of Indianapolis. She is probably the first woman to hold such a post. Women are displaying activity in so many fields, however, that these pioneer women are getting fewer and fewer. It will not be many years before no avenue of opportunity but will have its women representatives.

Here are some rules for women political speakers compiled by Mrs. Haisey W. Wilson, director of education for the Democratic national committee. She believes that the American public is particularly receptive when a woman speaks of political affairs in a serious, dignified manner. But flashy clothes, lipsticks and bobbed-hair work do destroy such a manner. She says:

"Wear as good clothes as you can afford, never better.

"Let your attire be simple and harmonious so that it will not distract or beguile your audience, or in any way compete with your speech.

From Book Of Life

IMAGINATION

Napoleon, the mob master, gave but a fact he learned at Mother Experience's knee when he said, "C'est l'imagination qui gouverne le genre humain," literally, "The human race is governed by its imagination.

A century and a half before the Corsican moodily stalked into the pages of history and provided some excellent scenes for David to paint, a Frenchman had come to much the same conclusion.

"Imagination," wrote Pascal, "is that deceitful part in man, that mistress of error and falsity, the more deceptive that she is not always so; for she would be an infallible rule of truth, if she were an infallible rule of falsehood. But, being most generally false, she gives no sign of her nature, impressing the same character on the true and the false.

"I do not speak of fools, I speak of the wisest men; and it is among them that the imagination has the gift of persuasion. Reason protests in vain; it cannot set a true value on things.

"This arrogant power, the enemy of reason, who likes to rule and dominate it, has established in man a second nature to show how all-powerful she is. Imagination makes men happy and sad, healthy and sick, rich and poor; she compels reason to believe, doubt, and deny; she blunts the senses, or quickens them; she has her fools and sages; and nothing vexes us more than to see that she fills her devotees with a satisfaction far more full and entire than does reason.

"Those who have a lively imagination are a great deal more pleased with themselves that the wise can reasonably be. They look down upon men with haughtiness; they argue with boldness and confidence, others with fear and diffidence; and this gaiety of countenance, often gives them the advantage in the opinion of the hearers, such favor have the imaginary wise in the eyes of judges of like nature.

"Imagination cannot make fools wise; but she can make them happy to the envy of reason which can only make its friends miserable; the one covers them with glory, the other with shame.

"What but this faculty of imagination dispenses reputation, awards respect and veneration to persons, works, laws, and the great? How insufficient are the riches of the earth without her consent!

"Would you not say that this magistrate, whose venerable age commands the respect of a whole people, is governed by pure and lofty reason, and that he judges causes according to their true nature without considering those mere trifles which only affect the imagination of the weak? See them go to a sermon, full of devout zeal, strengthening his reason with the ardor of his love. He is ready to listen with exemplary respect. Let the preacher appear, and let nature have given him a hoarse voice or a comical cast of countenance, or let his barber have given him a bad shave, or let by chance his dress be more dirtied than usual, then, however great the truths he announces, I wager our senator lose his gravity.

"If the greatest philosopher in the world find himself upon a plank wider than actually necessary, but hanging over a precipice, his imagination will prevail, though his reason convince him of his safety. Many cannot bear the thought without a cold sweat.

"Every one knows that the sight of cats or rats, the crushing of a coal, etc., may unhinge the reason. The tone of voices affects the wisest, and changes the force of a discord or a poem.

"Love or hate alters the aspect of justice. How much greater the confidence of an advocate, retained with a large fee, in the justice of his cause! How much better does his bold manner make his case appear to the judge, deceived as they are by appearances! How ludicrous is reason, blown with a breath in every direction.

"I should have to enumerate almost every action of men who waver save under her assaults. For reason has been obliged to yield, and the wisest reason takes as her own principles those which the imagination of man has everywhere rashly introduced."

M. P. P.—"I took out a spot with a cleansing fluid from a gray canton crepe dress and although the spot disappeared, a faint water-ring was left by the fluid. What will take this out?"

Mrs. N. C.—"Could you tell me how to paint or enamel my iron bed so that it would resemble wood and match my other bedroom furniture?"

Answer—Go to your hardware merchant and ask him to explain "graining" to you—the process which is used on floors to make the paint appear to have the natural grain of wood. This process consists of putting on a coat of light tan first, letting it dry, then putting on a coat of brown and, while this brown is still wet, running a rubber "graining tool" over it so as to let some of the light tan paint show through the brown—thereby giving the effect of the grain of wood.

E. H. S.—"If the lady who spilled kerosene on her dress will hang the dress in the open air, she will find that the oil evaporates in time."

Answer—It was good of you, Reader Friend, to send us this hint.

E.—"I thought your answer to the woman who inquired about rubber gloves was fine. I, too, wear them in doing my housework and have found that I can prevent their sticking together after washing, or having them in water, by drying them well and then dipping them in cornstarch, talcum or any kind of dry powder. The powder seems to preserve the rubber, while grease destroys it. This powder method of preservation is successful on any kind of rubber."

Mrs. J. S.—"One of your readers wished this recipe for Potato Pancakes: Grate three or four large, raw potatoes and beat into this grated potato two eggs (one at a time); season with salt to suit individual taste and fry the mixture in deep, hot fat. Stir the batter each time you take a little of it to fry. Apple sauce or huckleberries should accompany these pancakes."

Answer—I consider that a very rare recipe, for which I know we all thank you.

Even the best washing machine you can buy requires work; to prepare the wash, to put the clothes in and take them out, to care for the machine.

FREIGHT INCREASING

Without considering the merchandise that goes by steamboat, express car or mail, there are between 40,000,000 and 50,000,000 freight cars loaded each year in the United States as evidence of the great amount of freight commerce in the country. In 1921 the total was only about 40,000,000.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S ROPE

"That can't be the Fox, or Wolf, can it?" asked the rabbit gentleman, who was putting on his hat to hop out and look for an adventure.

"The knock didn't sound bold enough for one of the bad chaps," spoke Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But don't go out until I look," and peering from the side window the muskrat lady laughed as she said: It's all right—just Susie Littletail, the girl rabbit."

"May I hop along with you, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Susie as the bunny gentleman came out smiling. "I'm going to school—I'd like to hop with you."

"Well, all right, Susie, I think you may," said Mr. Longears. "But let me see—no, you haven't a hoop with you, as your brother Sammie had yesterday, to trip up old ladies—you haven't a hoop, have you, Susie?" he asked.

"Mercy me, no!" laughed Susie. "What would I be doing with a hoop?"

"Um—yes. That's what I should have asked Sammie yesterday," said Uncle Wiggily as he thought of all the things that had happened. "Well, as long as you haven't a hoop, Susie, I'll hop along with you."

So the rabbit gentleman and the little bunny girl hopped on together along the woodland path until, all of a sudden, as Susie was going very fast, she tripped and fell.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Pick me up, please," she cried.

"Oh, ho! Did you stub your toe?" asked Mr. Longears.

"No, I had my rope in my pocket," said Susie. "But it's so big that some of it stuck out and the rope caught on a bush and pulled out of my pocket and tangled around my legs and I fell. See, here's my rope."

"Except that I wasn't jumping with it, and I didn't trip anybody but myself," spoke Susie as she hopped up.

"That's very true," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, put your rope back in your pocket, Susie, and try to be more careful. You don't want to be late for school, you know."

"Indeed I don't," laughed the little rabbit girl. Then, as Uncle Wiggily hopped on a little way ahead, Susie picked up her rope, but instead of stuffing it back in her dress pocket, where it did make quite a lumpy bump, the little rabbit girl began to skip her rope.

"It won't do any harm to jump the rest of the way to school," she said to herself.

Uncle Wiggily, not knowing what Susie was doing, was looking about for some peppermint flowers, when, all of a sudden, he heard Susie cry:

"Oh, please, come and help me! Please come and help me!"

"Goodness! I hope the Fuzzy Fox hasn't caught Susie!" shouted Mr. Longears. Turning about, he saw that the little rabbit girl was all right, but her jumping rope was caught in a tree over her head.

"How did that happen, Susie?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "Were you trying to play you were a cowboy to lasso a leaf?"

"Oh, no, Uncle Wiggily!" answered Susie. "I was just jumping a little, as long as I had my rope out, and it caught on a branch over my head and I can't pull it down."

"Well, I'll get it for you and then you must put it in your pocket and hurry on to school," said Mr. Longears.

"Yes, sir," answered Susie. But when Uncle Wiggily had pulled down her rope and given it to her, and then had hopped on ahead, Susie began jumping again.

"I can get along faster by jumping," thought the little rabbit girl. But soon she had to call for help again.

"What's the matter now?" Uncle Wiggily turned to ask.

"Dear me!" sighed the rabbit uncle. "I wish you had left your rope at home, Susie." But he untangled it for her and they were just hurrying on to school when, all of a sudden, out popped the Skillery Scallery Alligator from the bushes. The alligator was going to open his mouth to shout at Uncle Wiggily and perhaps bite him, for all I know, when, all of a sudden, Susie flung her rope at the bad fellow.

The little rabbit girl's jumping rope tangled itself around the jaws of the Alligator so tightly that he couldn't open his mouth. And of course, when he couldn't open his mouth he couldn't bite. Could he?

"Come on, Susie! We must run before the Alligator gets the rope off!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Never mind crying! I'll buy you a new jumping rope, Susie!"

"And I guess you're glad I brought that one with me, aren't you?" asked the little rabbit girl as they ran away from the 'Gator.

"Indeed, I am!" laughed the bunny gentleman, twinkling his pink nose. And if the buttonhook doesn't try to jump in through the keyhole and pull the carpet off the stairs, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Johnnie's skates.

Feet Aid To Cupid

Here we have MISS BERTHA BRAGGIOTTI. She is of Boston. She has the most beautiful feet in this whole, wide world! Just read what she does to make her feet beautiful!

Miss Bertha Braggiotti of Boston has the most beautiful feet in New England. This judgment was passed on them by Dr. William Scholl, noted orthopedist. He told her that homely feet spoil many a love affair and that bad feet cause bad temper, but she would have no fears on those scores. Miss Braggiotti confessed she used rouge on her toenails and lots of cold cream and perfume on her peds.

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

TEMPTATION

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 18 years old and have been going with a boy 28. He is very nice to me. I am going away to school and he lives in a town nearby. When I don't go home he comes to see me. I get homesick and want to go home, but every time I do we quarrel and don't make up until I come back. He has talked to me about getting married when school is out in June. I am only a junior and intend to go another year, but he acts as if he didn't like it when I mention going on with school.

He is very jealous of me and hates to have me dance and talk with boy friends. When he gets angry he begins to drink. He never used to drink when he got angry with other girls. He also tells all of his troubles to a friend of his and this friend comes and tells me everything and says I should act better and not make him so angry.

I am a girl who enjoys a great deal of fun and am not happy until I have it, and he doesn't care for it very much. Would you advise me to keep up with my school?

BROWN-EYED BABE.

By all means finish your course at school. It would be a great pity to stop in your junior year. Besides, to marry a man who has started to drink would be most unsafe. Insist on your right to have other boy friends and good times at school as long as you are there. When you have graduated will be time enough to decide about marriage.

At Local Theatres

THE GLENDALE

"The Man from Brodney's," Vitagraph presentation of the famous George Barr McCutcheon novel, continues at the Glendale Theatre, with a cast including J. Warren Kerrigan, Alice Calhoun, Wanda Hawley, Miss DuPont, Pat OMalley and others.

The photoplay is splendidly done. David Smith, who produced "The Ninety and Nine," "The Midnight Alarm" and "Pioneer Trails," is the man responsible for the excellence of this piece. Realism literally reeks throughout the film. Beautiful settings fitting appropriately with the film maintain the high standard set by the unusual collection of stars found in the piece.

J. Warren Kerrigan, the man who has charmed millions through his work in "The Covered Wagon," "The Girl of the Golden West" and "Thundering Dawn," is undoubtedly at his best in "The Man from Brodney's."

THE GATEWAY

"Under the Red Robe," made for Goldwyn by Cosmopolitan by Alan Crosland, at an expense of nine months' time and $1,500,000, continues to thrill audiences at the Gateway Theatre, with its wondrous scenes and its all-star cast including Robert B. Mantell, John Charles Thomas and Alma Rubens .

In addition to the five picture studios used in making "Under the Red Robe," several armories had to be rented to accommodate reconstructions of whole streets in the Paris of the seventeenth century here faithfully represented. Famous architecture of that period also was reconstructed.

Especially elaborate are the costumes of Marie de Medici and of Anne of Austria, wife of Louis XIII. They are copied from portraits made in that period. The frame for Marie de Medici was particularly heavy and cumbersome.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By CARL L. TURNER
For International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—Ohio was inquiring today about membership in the league of States possessing the unique in capitols.

There is the palace Statehouse being erected in the shape of a giant obelisk, which will lend a touch of Egypt to the flat Western country in the vicinity of Lincoln.

Oklahoma's Capitol — built along the approved lines and magnificently furnished, which would satisfy even the most critical connoisseur of beautiful statehouses had he a vision that could measure no higher than the horizon—the edifice is barren of a dome.

And there are other "freaks" in capitol architecture too numerous to enumerate, but if plans of certain Ohians materialize this State will vie with all or any of the forty-eight for first honors.

It has been proposed that a large tower be constructed to accommodate a score or more State offices now scattered about Columbus in divers private office buildings.

At the mentioning of the projected tower several civic organizations, including the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, loosed criticism in such quantities as to arouse every town and hamlet within the confines of the commonwealth to the fact that "all was not well at the Capitol."

"Erection of a tower for offices above the present State House would destroy the classic and historic identity of the old Capitol about which, in seventy-five years much of the tradition of early Ohio now hangs, and does this without creating anything worthy to take its place," the Chamber charged.

State Auditor Tracy, a member of the building commission, then conducted a poll of members of the Legislature to obtain their attitude toward the tower idea. He said that of the sixty State Senators and Representatives questioned, two favored the plan where one opposed it.

"False economy" cried those fighting to preserve the present lines of the Capitol.

They pointed to the not far-distant election and to the common practice Legislatures are said to follow under such circumstances in taking "deep interest in saving their constituents' money."

James Daniels, secretary of the Chamber, sought to meet this move by issuing a statement in which he declared that the building of a tower over the Capitol would be "highly inefficient owing to the impossibility of getting natural light into the central offices, and much of the space now available in the present structure would be rendered useless.

"The cost would be very high," Daniels said, "even the lowest estimates exceeding by a considerable margin the sum now available by law, and other estimates run twice as high."

Final decision as to whether the tower or a new office building, adjacent to the State House, will be accepted to house the scattered State offices rests with the Legislature. Opposing factions promise to keep the ether colored with propaganda until the Assemblymen meet in January.

Columbus' first "skyscraper," the ancient four-story Huntington Building, has fallen before the tentacles of progress. Workman are busy razing it to make way for a modern office building.

The old building, constructed in 1878 as a bank, had walls of stone two and a half feet thick. The superstructure was of iron and brick, and the stairways were made of metal.

Early residents of Columbus recall that when the building was opened, persons flocked here from miles around to admire the size and magnificent architecture and the beautiful sandstone construction.

As an indication of the respect the old Huntington Building commanded is the record that shortly after it was completed the United States Weather Bureau moved into it to "gain the height advantage."

At the time the old building was described as a "skyscraper" it was surpassed in height only by the State House.

After embroiling the city for several weeks, a proposed ordinance designed to legalize gambling when sponsored by churches and kindred organizations, has been defeated in the City Council here at the request of the august churchmen themselves.

The Councilman who introduced the measure explained, with profuse apologies, that it was not intended to embarrass the churches, but to aid them in livening social affairs, with the "gambling" to be limited to the mildest games of chance.

PRESENT DISTRUST OF YOUTH RIDICULOUS, SAYS PRESIDENT OF VASSAR

The present profound distrust of youth is riduculous, in the opinion of President Henry Noble MacCracken of Vassar College, noted school for girls.

"What we all need is to be infected with youth," he said recently. "Then we will understand better what youth is driving at and youth will have more tolerance for what we think and say."

DR. M'CRACKEN

"Youth hasn't been living in a vacuum. The modern girl sees all of life that she can see. She knows a great deal about her father and mother. More, perhaps, than they know about her. She thinks a great deal about life. The girls who come here are serious about their work. All of them are doing what they want to do most. They make study a major sport. It is the business of the instructors to see that students like this sport best. We can learn a great deal from the modern girl. We do learn a great deal from her, and incidentally we learn something about her.

"We've learned that she has a fine mind, that she has originality, that she can apply herself to scholastic work with brilliant results.

"Faculties take themselves too seriously. The members are apt to be pompous, aloof, inaccessible.

"During the four years a girl is with us we try to give her the necessary equipment for her later life outside of college. If there is a protest against the college environment, she is given an opportunity to voice that protest. But we do not let her burn down a chemical laboratory. We do not give her an uncontrolled enviornment. We tell the students what control is needed in a laboratory; that if certain precautions are not observed definite disaster follows.

"Psychology has been showing us the way to solve many difficulties. Within the last ten years, it has given us a much better understanding of things we formerly knew little about. Not only are we learning more about the study capacity of the student, but more about her physical and mental state. There is no use blaming any one when one is sick. And certainly some people are sick. Take the young girl who committed suicide the other day in New York because she was taller than the rest of the class. That girl was sick. She should not be blamed for what she did. Those are things to be guarded against. In most cases they can be prevented. That is the responsibility of the modern school. Statistics show, I think, that 80 per cent of the human race are honest, the other 20 per cent are victims of social heredity and bad environment.

"Let's get down to our jubs. Let's stop criticizing the modern girl. I think one of our teachers hit the nail on the head the other day when she said that the conduct of the observed was apt to be reflected by the mind of the observer."

TIGERS' DEFEAT IS BIG FEATURE OF SECOND WEEK

Giant Pitching Staff Able to Deliver; Comment on Events in Sport

By AL DIX
Of The Evening News Staff.

The real high light of the second week of the Coast League season, as far as local fans were concerned, was the defeat of the Vernon Tigers in their series with the Angels. By taking Sunday's double-header the Seraphs won four games to the Tigers' three.

Doc Crandall, in his twenty-first year, and Charlie Root, recruit, proved the winners. If Marty Krug could develop one other winning pitcher he would be right up amongst them, but after these two turn in their games it's a game of "put and take" with the Angel leader; that is, put them in and take them out.

After winning the first two games the Bengals looked the goods, but they slumped badly. Their hitting power was not in evidence and the support accorded the pitchers was none too good.

Angels at Oakland

Marty Krug and his Angels open today in Oakland. With the count on series two won and none lost, having beat Seattle and Vernon, the Seraph leader, as he swung aboard the rattler, said he expected to beat the Oaks. Ivan Howard's crowd has been battling the Seals without much success.

Salt Lake trimmed the Indians with ease and the Seals walloped the Oaks.

The San Francisco crowd opens a seven-game series with Vernon at Washington Park this afternoon, and fans will flock to the park to see Ellison and his candidate for pugilistic honors, "Stew" Mulligan. Mulligan registered a knockout the first week of the season over B Kenworthy of Portland and is reported to be in great shape. Just when the bargain matinee will be pulled off, if at all, has not been announced.

Yanks Lack Punch

The surprise of the week in the majors has been the poor showing of the Yankees. With a pitching staff rated as the best in the major leagues, their offerings have been hit all over the lot by the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators. The punch of last year has been lacking in the world's champions, who now occupy a place way down in the second division.

Naturally, the Sox have profited by the Yankees' downfall and are roosting away up there. But it's a long time until the last of October.

Without a doubt the best baseball of the week developed at Cincinnati, where the Pirates opened the season. All games were pitchers' battles and the scores were uniformly close. Jakie May, the ex-Vernon hurler, has appeared twice now in Red uniform to finish games and should be about ready to start.

Giants' Staff Good

Wayland Dean, who cost McGraw 50 grand, threw that much at the Dodgers to win. Virgil Barnes also won, and Jack Bentley, former Baltimcre pitcher, took the mound and came out victorious. McGraw believes Bentley is a good hurler and has taken lots of care with his high-priced left-hander. The scarcity of good pitching on the Giant staff may not be so noticeable as some of the eastern experts would have us think.

Occidental College athletes covered themselves with glory at the second annual University of Kansas relays last Saturday. It is doubtful if any college in the country with the small enrollment of the Eagle Rock institution can muster as fine a squad of representatives on the track, diamond and gridiron. Montgomery, Carter, Morcy and Ellsworth in the distances, and Argue, Buckman, Powers and Nash in the sprints, are eight men mighty hard to beat. They are now on their way to the Penn State relays, where the competition will be very stiff. Coach Joe Pipal has high hopes of winning there, also.

The largest crowd that ever attended a track meet in Southern California undoubtedly will be present at the Los Angeles Coliseum May 24, when the Olympic tryouts are held. While Paddock will naturally be the center of interest, the greatest aggregation of athletes ever gathered here will compete.

Competition will be very keen in all events and several local records are expected to fall.

Southern Branch Is Gym Title Winners

The Southern Branch gym team won the California Intercollegiate A. A. U. gymnastic championship, defeating the teams from U. S. C. and California, besides the squads from the southern conference. The Grizzlies scored 44½ points, the Trojans finishing second with 25½ and California brought up the rear with 21 digits.

Glenn Berry, captain of the Grizzly team, was the individual star and will make a strong bid for the Olympic team.

Morgan and M'Lean To Meet at Vernon

Tod Morgan will enter the ring at Doyle's Vernon arena tonight the favorite over Stewart McLean in the main event. According to the alleged experts, Morgan, who boxed in Los Angeles many months ago when breaking into the boxing game, throws too many gloves for Stewart and hits much harder. McLean will have a big advantage in weight and his supporters claim that he will wear Morgan down.

Which ever way it goes, the mill should prove highly entertaining to the fans, who anticipate a torrid session.

In the semi-windup, Jockey Joe Dillon, a rough, willing boy who knows next to nothing about boxing will take on Young Nationalista, who is a prime favorite at Vernon and always packs the house. The Filipino youngster is a fast worker, but if Dillon can connect he may slow him up considerably.

Matchmaker Wad "High-Hat" Wadhams has arranged a well-balanced card and the tip is to "come early." Indications point to a capacity house.

Bull Montana In Role Of Wrestler on Stage

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Bull Montana will be seen in action on the mat in this city a week from tomorrow night, when he will take on Prof. Mulligan, instructor at the Y. M. C. A. school at the Philharmonic auditorium. Although Montana is not listed as one of the headliners, his go with the instructor is sure to attract a good deal of attention.

BAD PITCHING IS FATAL TO YANKS

Four of First Five Games Are Lost by World's Champion Team

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 22.—One of several surprises featuring the opening week of the major league pennant races was furnished by our esteemed New York Yankees, cast for the role of champions, but playing the part of chumps—at the moment. Not since 1920 have the Yankees given such an exhibition as they did during the first few days of the American league race, and when the Yankees are bad, we defy any ball club to be worse.

Their present standing is one victory in five starts. The world's champions have lost four in a row to the Red Sox and Senators, generally picked as logical flat feet.

Bad pitching by what is considered the greatest staff in the major leagues is one answer, and colossal infield blunders and failure to hit opportunely have done the rest.

Others On Top

One man's honey being another's glucose, the Senators and Red Sox are well up in rating at present, naturally enough. They constitute an early season surprise, as do the Chicago White Sox, who got away running against the Browns and now top the league, in collaboration with the Tigers, with four victories and one defeat. The present position of the Indians and Browns is unnatural, neither having been able to muster consistent pitching.

John McGraw cannot complain on this score with any degree of consistency. Three of his four winning efforts have been turned in by young men. Wayland Dean gave him $50,000 worth of pitching on his premiere in the majors, Virgil Barnes beat the Braves on Saturday and yesterday Walter Huntzinger gave a very natty performance against the same club.

The rest of the National league process is running more or less as it should, barring the fact that the Dodgers do not belong in the first division.

TAGGING ALL BASES

By International News Service.

Five pitchers took part in the slugging bee between the Cardinals and Pirates, the former winning, with a six-run rally in the seventh, 11 to 9.

De Berry's homer with two on in the tenth gave the Dodgers a 7-to-4 victory over the Phils.

Benny Leonard Signs Motion Picture Pact

NEW YORK, April 22.—Following the example set by Jack Dempsey, world's champion, Benny Leanard, lightweight champ, through his manager, Billy Gibson, yesterday signed a $100,000 contract to appear in a motion picture based on the title holder's career.

Gibson said that the screen agreement stipulated that the contract should in no way interfere with Leonard's pending ring engagements.

Hope Operation Will Improve Faber's Arm

Urban Faber, White Sox pitching ace, will undergo an operation to have his pitching arm restored to service. A small sliver of bone was chipped from the elbow in spring training, it is believed, and Faber has not been of service to the staff for two or three weeks. If the operation is successful the spitballer may return to the game in a fortnight, it is said.

Amos Strunk Released By Chicago White Sox

CHICAGO, April 22.—Amos Strunk, one of the two surviving members of the four time pennant winning Athletics, yesterday was released by the Chicago White Sox, leaving only Eddie Collins, captain of the Sox, in the game. Strunk's release was unconditional.

Hoppe on Way to L. A. For Exhibition Match

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Willie Hoppe, world's billiard champ, is expected to reach this city at an early date, where he will give an exhibition of his craft. Dates for such will be announced later.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

CINCINNATI, April 22.—Babe Pinelli's long smash to left center in the tenth yesterday scored Pat Duncan with the run that gave the Reds a 2 to 1 victory over the Cubs. It was a tough game for Grover Alexander to lose.

Bozzanni Sweepstakes Is Feature for Ascot

The "Bozzanni Sweepstakes" will be the feature event of next Sunday's card at Ascot Speedway was the announcement made from the speedway office today.

Amerigo Bozzanni, long a patron of the auto racing sport, will be honored by the management, and will present a handsome silver trophy to the winner of the big race.

Ten events are carded, one being another of the "hill-and-dale" motor-bike races over the "Targa Florio" course. As the annual Capistrano hill-climb event has been indefinitely postponed, many noted riders from other parts of the state who have prepared their machines for the Orange county classic are planning to compete at Ascot next Sunday.

Ralph De Palma stated at noon that his car will be ready for next Sunday and that he will meet all comers in the Ascot Helmet Dash and the Bozzanni Sweepstakes.

Rocky Kansas Knocks Dundee All Over Ring

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Johnny Dundee, featherweight, and junior lightweight champion, took a pasting from Rocky Kansas, Buffalo lightweight, in a ten-round bout here last night. The official decision was won by Kansas, who led in every round, nearly knocking out the champion in the first round and flooring him twice in the fourth round. No title was at stake in the bout.

Qualifying Round at Flintridge Is Opened

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The qualifying round of play in the Flintridge invitational golf tournament will open today and it is expected that the finals will be finished by Saturday. More than 175 entrants have signed to take part in the annual affair. Medal scores will be turned in either today or tomorrow by the players.

GLENDALE TRACK TEAM IN PRELIMS

Nine High School Stars to Compete in L. A. Meet at Coliseum

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, Jr.,
Of The Evening News Staff.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, nine Glendale High athletes will join the general melee of cinderpath artists at the Los Angeles Coliseum to participate in the preliminaries to the Southern California track meet. Although no great triumphs are to be expected in the class A division, the local chances in the 110 section are good.

Coach Hayhurst of Glendale is entering the following men in the Class A or unlimited events: Fish in the 440; Murphy and Purdy in the 220; "Bud" Elliot and Austey in the broad jump; "Breezy" Elliot of football fame and Lavelle and De Parc in the shot put; in the Class C shot put Killinger will be the Glendale entry. Lowe and Dinsmore will uphold the local hopes in the 50, 100, and 220 dashes. Miller will compete in the broad jump, and also in the 50 and 100 yard dashes, and Korb will be in the high hurdles.

If Harry Fish is able to repeat his pre-season time of 53 seconds flat for the 440 yard dash he should not go begging for a place near the top. Shirley Miller, 110 flash, should show up well in the dashes as well as in the broad jump. His best time for the 100 yards is 10 6-10 seconds, which should easily cop first place in the Class C section.

News that Battling Siki has gone on the wagon is interesting. Most of the time he is in it.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Portsmouth, Ohio—Frankie Susnell won from Midget Guerry, Cincinnati; ten rounds.

At Detroit—Henry Leonard shaded Tommy Ryan of Buffalo in ten rounds; Jimmy Brady beat Jimmy Carvel of Buffalo.

At East Chicago—Sammy Mandel, Rockford, beat Bill Henry, Chicago, ten rounds; Newsboy Brown, Sioux City, knocked out Johnny Walker, Battle Creek, three rounds; Farmer Joe Cooper, Yorkville, Ill., knocked out Johnny Wrenn, Chicago, three rounds.

At Louisville—Johnny Mackintosh outpointed Tommy Billiards of Allentown, Pa., ten rounds; Willie Bush of Louisville shaded Jimmy Stuart of Cincinnati, six rounds.

Tilden Drops Out of Olympic Tennis Team

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion and conceded to be the greatest player of all time, yesterday announced his resignation as a member of the American Davis cup and Olympic teams.

His action comes as a sequel to the report of the amateur rules committee made March 15, in which they said that the player-writer, mentioning Tilden in particular, was regarded not only no longer an amateur but as an evil influence in the game.

The champion said he would play as an individual in such American tournaments as he might enter and would defend his title in the national championship next August.

Yankee teams have entered in sixteen Olympic events for the 1924 season.

PADDOCK LEAVES FOR DRAKE MEET

Sprinter's Reappearance on Track Will Be First In Over Year

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Charles W. Paddock, world's greatest sprinter, departed from southern California yesterday, with Des Moines, Ia., as his destination. Paddock will take part in the Drake relays, marking the first time he has been in competition for a year.

The general opinion among track followers of the south has been that Paddock has slowed up in his sprinting, but the human flash seems to be about at his best, judging from his showing made in workouts lately. He has kept in strict training all the time, since injuring an ankle, and looks fit. He stated, on departing, that he was in great shape and hoped to equal if not better his former record of nine and three-fifths seconds for the century.

DR. PAUL HUNTER IS GOLF CHAMPION

Defeats Willie Hunter In Hard Fought Match at Annandale Course

Dr. Paul Hunter yesterday won the southern California amateur golf championship from Willie Hunter, titleholder and former champion of Great Britain, 2 and 1, over the Annandale course.

A gallery of three thousand followed the players throughout the day. The former champion finished one up on the doctor in the morning round, but the idol of southern California golfers played steadily throughout the afternoon and assumed the lead on the thirteenth green. From then on he appeared to have the match in hand.

Willie Hunter was a good loser and was the first to congratulate the new champion. This is the fourth time that Dr. Paul Hunter has won the honor.

Gibbons-Carpentier Bout May Be Stopped

NEW YORK, April 22.—Legal proceedings to prevent Georges Carpentier, French light heavyweight, from meeting Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul in Michigan City, Ind., on May 21 will be started in the courts of Indiana immediately upon the Frenchman's arrival in this country, Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, announced yesterday.

Gibson said he would base his application for an injunction on his contract with Descamps, Carpentier's manager, for a Carpentier-Tunney match. This, he asserted, contained a clause prohibiting Carpentier from engaging in any other match in the United States before meeting Tunney.

Purses for golf professionals are gradually getting larger, sport experts say.

Offers Sggestions

"There are four important things to remember," Drive Manager P. B. Ogden told the majors, captains and workers who assembled for a few minutes in the Chamber of Commerce rooms shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. "First, stick to your prospect cards; second, sell the quota allotted to the prospect; third, sell every prospect, and, fourth, don't take NO for an answer."

The meeting was well attended and marked by an enthusiasm that promises the balance of the $50,000 advertising fund will unquestionably be raised during the three-day campaign that started this morning. M. Walters, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce ways and means committee, addressed the gathering briefly, priming them for the task. He then answered a rapid-fire barrage of questions laid down by numerous workers who wished to have certain points cleared up.

On Right Lines

Every question was answered to the entire satisfaction of the questioner, and the feeling was general that this drive is built along right lines, with a right purpose, and is bound to succeed. It was particularly stressed by Mr. Walters that the expense of the campaign, including Mr. Ogden's salary, has been underwritten on the outside, and that every dollar raised will go directly to advertising Glendale, the funds to be in charge of a board of control comprising twenty-one leading and representative residents of the city.

P. B. Ogden then addressed the gathering, and, after a few preliminary remarks, read to them the "Manual of Procedure" prepared for the guidance of workers. The quotas placed on the prospect cards were arrived at in a joint meeting of the ways and means committee and the board of control, he stated. Blue prospect cards indicate business firms and professional firms, while white cards indicate property owners. Pledges are payable 20 per cent May 1 and 10 per cent the first day of each month thereafter until the balance has been paid in full.

Arrange Details

Each captain was given a large manila envelope having listed on the outside the name of his major, the number of his division and the names of his workers. Enclosed in each envelope was found:

First — Prospect cards with names and addresses of prospects.

Third—List of subscribers to the $16,325 already pledged.

It is expected that the prospect cards will be checked over and all names solicited during the first two days of the drive, so that Thursday, April 24, Will be a "Field Day" when majors, captains and workers may go here and there about the city, at will, soliciting whomever they choose. In this way it is believed that many additional thousands of dollars will be rounded up and put to work advertising Glendale to the world as "the fastest growing city in America."

Personal Subscriptions

In the published lists of subscriptions to Glendale's "100,000" Club, there were certain $25 subscriptions from prominent men and some people have arrived at the conclusion that $25 is therefore a substantial investment in the fund.

The fact is that these $25 subscriptions were merely personal subscriptions by officials whose companies had already made large donations, in order that each individual might have his name on the list.

COME FROM CHINA

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Among the recently registered guests at the Biltmore were W. H. Faulkner and J. S. Love who registered from Shanghai, China. They are in the tobacco trade and have had numerous chances to see the Chinese life of thousands of years' standing in the hill provinces of Honan. This is the seat of banditry, according to report, but Mr. Faulkner has returned safely from a four year's stay, thus proving the reports to be greatly exaggerated. L. Titus and wife of Washington, D. C., came into town very quietly and were followed to the registry by R. C. Walker, prominent London clubman.

SEEKS COMMISSION

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—James C. Lee today asked $25,000 from the Western Avenue Golf club as his commission in the sale of the court for $440,000. In an action filed in superior court he claims the sale has been completed but the officials refuse to authorize payment of the commission.

New Styles Shown At Paris

Hats that will be worn in the year 2000 appear on beautiful models in the great millinery event of the year in the brilliant French capital, even if few present day wearers will be alive then to see how they really look.

By MME. LISBETH

What hats shall we wear in the year 2000? Paris milliners had a chance to broadcast their views on the subject at a ball where "millinery that will be fashionable in the year 2000" was featured. The freak hats shown are the result of their efforts. Birds and beasts were used as decorations and the chapeaus created were unique, to say the least, and many of them were developed in beautiful color effects and smart lines.

The befeathered chapeau at the top of this picture, with the one second from the left below of leaves and beads, won first prize. On the extreme left is a Napoleonic effort with a monogram. This idea will not be new in 2000 as we use it today on both hats and blouses, although as there "is nothing new under the sun" and "history repeats itself," in the natural course of events the idea will be due for reappearance about that time.

On the extreme right is a huge picture hat of wired lace with a border of curled ostrich tips and a loop of beads crossing under the chin from brim to brim. A close fitting turban crown fits closely to the head. To the left of this is a Mephistophelean creation that might be practical for flying as it fits closely about the face and has a cape that comes down well on to the shoulders. It, too, is trimmed with beads, which, it seems, will be popular in the next century if Parisian prophesies come true. Two long horns or ears project on each side of the head.

While few of us will live to see the fashions for the year 2000, I am free to admit that I, for one, am glad I will not have to wear one of these creations. I am sure they would not be very becoming and where would we wear them? If airplaning has superseded autoing in that year they certainly will not be practical for that sport and most of them take up altogether too much room for ordinary wear.

However, it may not be true, so why worry? And it is always interesting to see what ideas our French sisters have for this and other generations. They teach us much and we can and do adapt them to our own needs to American needs.

LAWYER ASSAILS RADICAL MENACE

Government Is Threatened By Red Organizations, McCartney Claims

Radical organizations are a menace to Christianity, civilization and government and should be wiped out, H. S. G. McCartney, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles county, declared in an address before the members of the Exchange club held today noon at the Egyptian Village.

To offset the spread of radicalism, the speaker urged each child be taught the constitution and laws of the country and to think for themselves. Such a process, he said, would be the only means of stopping a catastrophe that is bound to come and which will bring ruin to the nation and the fall of civilization.

Every generation has some members who are ready and waiting for a chance to overthrow civilization. The production of a more superior class of society is needed, for records show in the last half century an increase of an inferior class.

Mr. McCartney read one of the numerous songs published in a book called "I. W. W. Songs, to Fan the Flame of Discontent." The songs were published in book form as a memorial to Joe Hill, a murderer, he said. The song he read urged the overthrow of the country by acts of violence. The organization has a membership in excess of 100,000, he said, and the country is being flooded with their literature.

H. M. Bennett, W. A. McCormack and D. Ripley Jackson were appointed members of a committee by President R. E. Johnston to arrange plans for a "ladies' night," to be given in the near future.

Postmaster Jackson reported on the organization of an Exchange club at Alhambra by himself and G. A. Whitaker. President Johnston announced the bowling team would go to Long Beach next Friday to attend a meeting of that club and meet the Long Beach bowling team after the luncheon. Several members of the local club will also attend the meeting.

SUIT DISMISSED

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Suit for a writ of mandate, asked by A. L. Felt, Long Beach taxpayer and voter, to prevent the name of Burr A. Brown from being placed on the ballot as candidate for city attorney, was dismissed by the plaintiff late yesterday afternoon. Felt had alleged that Brown has not been admitted to the California bar for the required five years period. In the notice of dismissal filed by Felt, he assigned no reason for his action. Brown's name will now be permitted on the ballot with two other candidates.

GIRL DISAPPEARS

VENICE, April 22.—Florence Barr, 15, disappeared early yesterday morning and has not been seen since. No motive has been ascribed for her departure. The police of both cities are on the lookout for her and hope to be able to report her safety to her parents.

Made Plumbers Drunk, Wife Claims In Suit

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—When plumbers were called to work on the pipes at their Pasadena home, Charles Mitchell Clarke, wealthy clubman, got them drunk, Mrs. Elsa Clark alleges in a divorce complaint filed late yesterday. He also claimed that California men are "not supposed" to support their wives, she says. Community property is worth $22,000.

Reach Compromise In $10,500 Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Suit for $10,500 damages, brought by Mrs. Emma Lange against the Pickering Pleasure Pier company and the Barr Fiery circus, Ocean Park, has been settled out of court, it was learned when the civil action was called in Judge Craig's court yesterday. She claimed she was injured when hit on the head by a bomb during a fireworks display.

FIRE IN CULVERT

The fire department was called this morning at 6:45 o'clock to extinguish a blaze in the culvert at Fourth street and Western avenue, under the Pacific Electric tracks. The damage resulting was slight.

U. S. PASSING UP FILIPINOS' TRADE

Ambassador Declares Golden Opportunity Neglected in Eastern Field

TOKIO, April 22.—"Every nation of the world can see the trade opportunities in the Philippines and every nation of the world that amounts to anything is going after that Philippines trade—except the United States, which owns the islands," said Ambassador Cyrus E. Woods, United States representative in Tokio, following a trip of several weeks in the Philippine islands. Ambassador Woods returned to Tokio to take up the work he left here when he returned to the United States following the Japanese earthquake disaster. He said that he was constantly impressed while in the Philippines with the lack of interest in the United States in the great products of the islands and, on the contrary, the great interest that is being manifested by other nations there.

Fertile Region

"At home," said the ambassador, "we look upon the Philippines simply as a hotbed of rotten politics and disease germs. The place is not that in any sense of the word. It is one of the most fertile and could be made one of the most productive places in the world. All it needs is American capital to develop its wonderful resources and I know of no place where capital would receive such abundant reward. Iron, lumber, sugar, rubber and hemp and many other products are practically begging for development in the islands. I fail to see why the situation has never been presented in an emphatic way to the American people."

Wife Wields Wicked Razor; Hubby Kicks

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The ambitios of Ethel Sauer Essig, Long Beach, to become a lady barber literally wrecked his home, William A. Essig claims in a cross complaint filed late yesterday. She learned to cut hair all right, he says, but was no good with the razor. He objected to being used as a subject for practice with that instrument. The case is before Judge Ira Thompson.

RECOVERS SEDAN

LONG BEACH, April 22—Gunshot from the proprietor of a drug store at 1922 West Forty-eighth street, resulted in the recovery of a high-priced sedan belonging to J. P. Mills, 110 American avenue, Long Beach. The store was being burglarized and the shots were fired at the fleeing bandits who did not have time to take the car which, on investigation, was found to have been stolen from the well known real estate dealer and subdivider.

PASADENA WOMAN SUES FOR BONDS

Alleged Scientist Secured $17,000 on False Plea, Says Complaint

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—R. H. W. Albrexstondare, alleged to have mulcted Pasadena residents of large sums of money, while posing as a scientist doing research work in Southern California, was made defendant in a civil suit filed today by Jennie E. McFadden, wealthy Pasadenan, to recover $17,000 in Liberty bonds she says he secured through fraud.

Other operations in the Crown City during the past six months are said to have netted him about $20,000. Albrexstondare is now in the Orange county jail at Santa Ana. He claims he has been doing research work with oils, but county authorities allege he treated two people who later died at Orange. While he was not held for their death, he is now charged with practicing medicine unlawfully.

Claimed Property

According to Mrs. McFadden today, Albrexstondare told her he had valuable property at Pasadena and precious gems, against which mortgages were due. He secured the Liberty bonds from her to pay off the mortgages, she claims. On April 12 she says she discovered he had no property; no precious gems, nor were there any mortgages to be paid off. It is claimed they are now in a safe deposit box in a Pasadena bank, held under the name of James McKnight, an alleged alias.

FATHER, DAUGHTER DIE IN FLAMES

Adrian, Mich., Blaze Takes Toll of Two Lives; Two at Houston

ADRIAN, Mich., April 22.—John Hamden, 57, and his daughter, Iva, 10, lost their lives today in a fire which destroyed the interior of their home. Firemen found the body of the father in the kitchen doorway where the fire apparently had its origin.

The child died of suffocation as she attempted to enter an adjoining room.

Two Dead In Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, April 22.—Two unidentified persons were burned to death and the body of another is believed in the ruins of a fire that destroyed a frame house here today.

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

By Southland News Service

The Union Oil of California's Callender No. 2 well, which blew in the middle of last week, producing a large quantity of gas, has been brought under control. The flow has been turned into tanks and is estimated at 3000 barrels 32 gravity oil and 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. This is the largest and deepest producer in the new Dominguez field.

Federal trade commission has held Eastman Kodak company, Allied Laboratories association and Jules E. Brulatour constitute a film monopoly.

Issue of $10,000,000 Illinois 4½ per cent soldier bonus bonds has been offered on a 4 to 4.40 basis.

British gold exports last week were 1,900,217 pounds, of which 1,730,237 went to the United States.

Continued decline in production of oil in California leads oil men to believe it will be necessary to take oil out of storage within the next few weeks in order to meet requirements when oil is drawn from storage it is virtually certain higher prices will be made. In the week ended April 18, Long Beach field declined more than 10,000 barrels a day to 179,300 daily. This field is being exhausted rapidly and can be predicted that it will be down with Santa Fe Springs field, which is producing 76,500 barrels daily, within a matter of few weeks, Long Beach which is producing 225,000 barrels a day recently. Santa Fe Springs present production is at lowest point yet reached. Total production of Los Angeles basin is declining in face of much new drilling.

A million tons of sugar will be carried over into the new "sugar year" on September 1, according to trade bulletin of the Federal Sugar Refining company. In view of this situation the company predicts that because of the large expected increase in production and early harvesting here and in Europe, Cuban and other "inside" sugar producers will "endeavor to dispose of all this year's crop before September or October." This will be done to avoid competition of new crop sugar which will be available as is already offered, at a considerable reduction from present prices. Several reductions in the price of the refined product have been announced within the last week.

Harry Thaw Causes Commotion In Court

Thaw had been sitting with his 82-year-old mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, during the morning session when two attorneys had bitterly assailed Thaw in their addresses to the jury, asserting he was insane and should be kept in the asylum.

Leaves Mother's Side

Immediately after adjournment was announced, Thaw suddenly left his mother's side and rushed to the correspondents' table. He grasped one of them by the hand.

"I want to say I thought they'd break the jury, but I don't think so now," he declared.

"Well, I'm not afraid now—I thought so when Gray (William A. Gray, attorney for Evelyn Nesbit, who is opposing Thaw's release) was talking. I was nervous. But I'm not nervous now. Everything is all right now—don't you think? Nothing to be afraid about—nothing. Say, my mother wants to be interviewed—she can tell you a lot of things in ten minutes. But that jury—that jury won't be broken, will it?"

Thaw Nervous

Thaw was highly nervous. He shook hands with more reporters. They tried to get him to make his remarks more lucid, but he seemed unable to co-ordinate his faculties.

The committee will begin its final tour in Southern California April 21. The Barstow-Needles highway, the Crest route and the Rim of the World highway will be inspected, and the coast route on the return north.

STOCK STOLEN, CLAIM

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—An overly considerate clerk who insisted on his employers taking a day off at the beach was the way Max Cohen, 271 South Main street, lost a $4,000 stock of men's furnishings, his cash register receipts for Saturday, and his clerk, Sydney Zinner, whom he accused of being responsible for the loss. Officers following Cohen's complaint, found the goods neatly packed and addressed for shipment to Cleveland, Ohio, where Zinner's brothers are said to run a "Snappy Clothing Co.," Cohen denies Zinner's statement that part of the goods in question belong to the clerk.

'Badge Bandit' Is Caught In Arizona Officials Believe

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Sought for months in one of the most relentless man hunts in the history of southern California as an alleged murderer and attacker of more than thirty women, Harry Dunlap, notorious "badge bandit," was believed to be under arrest today at Prescott, Ariz., according to information received at the sheriff's office here today from Sheriff G. A. Ruffner of Prescott.

The message from the Arizona sheriff briefly stated he had arrested a man there answering to Dulnap's description, and asked further minute descriptions.

EXPLAINS HOW TO RECEIVE REFUNDS

come received from community property only, and that taxpayers must continue to report separately that income received from their separate property. The separate returns filed should be accompanied by a statement showing the amount received from community property and the amounts received from separate property. This will expedite the handling of claims by the internal revenue bureau and the taxpayers will receive their credit or refund more quickly if all facts are shown on the amended returns filed, and the necessity for obtaining additional information is obviated.

In no case should any claim be filed without the accompanying agreement properly signed by both husband and wife, agreeing to the adjustment of taxes. Amended returns should be filed upon the regular income tax blanks, and should be clearly marked "amended."

Claims for abatement, refund or credit are filed upon Form No. 843, which can be secured from the office of the collector or any of the branch offices.

Amended returns should be securely attached to the reverse side of claims filed.

More Forms Coming

The collector said that only a limited number of prior year returns are on hand at this time, but that additional forms are now en route from Washington, D. C.

Claims may also be filed for 1917, Collector Goodcell stated, in cases where taxpayers filed waivers agreeing to a later determination of taxes due prior to April 1, 1923.

In view of the contemplated 25 per cent reduction in taxes, Collector Goodcell advised that taxpayers withhold filing claims for 1923 taxes until June 1, 1924 at least. It will then be possible for one claim only to cover the entire adjustment.

Stamp Probe Started

Investigation of transfers of stock and other securities in connection with the use of documentary stamps was started yesterday by field deputies of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

In many cases Collector Goodcell said, it has been found that thousands of dollars' worth of stock had been issued and transferred without documentary stamps being affixed. In one instance it was discovered that through a misinterpretation of the law one corporation had made transfers of more than $1,000,000 worth of stock without affixing a single documentary stamp.

The investigation to be made will be widespread, Collector Goodcell stated. Heavy penalties are provided by law for failure to affix the proper stamps to transfer deeds and other conveyances and Collector Goodcell advised business men to exercise care in seeing that documentary stamps were affixed. Where there is any doubt in a taxpayer's mind as to his stamp tax liability, the Collector urged the taxpayer to get into communication with his office.

Ruling on Returns

Under a ruling received yesterday by Collector Goodcell a husband and wife who filed a joint return for 1922 may not subsequently file separate returns, even though the wife's income through error, was not reported in the joint return.

The case was one submitted to Commissioner Blair by Collector Goodcell. An examination of the taxpayer's accounts developed the fact that his wife's income had not been included in the joint return filed. The taxpayer claimed the right to file separate amended returns but Commissioner Blair held that as the husband and wife had elected to file a joint return in the first instance and the fact that all of their income was not reported did not alter the fact that an election was made at the time the original return was made.

The treasury department's ruling holds that although the revenue act of 1921 provides that manufacturers who sell both at retail and wholesale shall pay tax at the wholesale price, this provision of the law does not authorize manufacturers to compute their taxes on a fictitious wholesale price or on a fictitious accounting charge made by the manufacturing plant to the sales department. In other words a manufacturer who sells only at retail must pay tax on the prices for which his articles are sold.

Mrs. Willis Pleads Not Guilty in Court

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—"I am not guilty of murder."

This was the answer made by Mrs. Margaret Willis, confessed slayer of Dr. Benjamin Baldwin, when she appeared in superior court yesterday to answer the murder charge against her.

"My conscience is clear and my soul is untainted," she continued. "I only ask that judgment upon me be withheld until I have had a fair trial." Mrs. Willis also expressed herself as believing that justice would prevail for her in the end.

ENDORSEMENT OF COOLIDGE SHOWN

States In Every Section In Line With President For Nomination

San Bernardino, and Mrs. Frank Short, of Fresno, will also be guests of honor. Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Garner and Mrs. Short are alternates for Coolidge delegation candidates.

A special program for the meeting is being arranged by Mrs. Christopher Gordon, Mrs. F. C. Magauran and Mrs. Estelle Omdalen. Mrs. Eva Wheeler, president of the Southern California Chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, has been invited by the committee to serve as toastmistress.

Invitations to attend this meeting have been extended by the Southern California Coolidge headquarters and reservations for the luncheon may be made at the Coolidge headquarters in Los Angeles and Pasadena. Special music and other entertainment features are being arranged by the program committee.

The luncheon is to be the principal rally meeting of Coolidge women in Southern California prior to the May 6 primary. Extensive arrangements have been made to accommodate a large attendance at this meeting.

Coolidge campaign managers in California met in San Francisco on Saturday, April 19, to complete plans for the drive which is to be made in the president's behalf. Marshall Hale, chairman of the campaign committee of five, presided at the meeting. Mr. Hale reached San Francisco on Saturday, returning from a European trip of several weeks' duration.

"The entire nation is looking to California to express its confidence in the policies and administration of President Calvin Coolidge at the May 6 primary," he declared, following the meeting.

Southern California members of the Housewives' League of the Southwest have appealed to the women of the state to support the candidacy of President Calvin Coolidge. At a meeting in Los Angeles on Saturday, April 19, more than 150 members of the organization passed a resolution in which President Coolidge was described as "the friend of all the people." Officers of the organization invited Mrs. Mural Knight and Judge E. D. Reiter to speak regarding the Coolidge candidacy, before those who attended the meeting.

The league has members in all of the states of the Southwest and is said to be the only body of its kind in the west. Mrs. Gertrude Hubbard, president, and Mrs. Margaret M. Matteson, secretary and treasurer, signed the resolution which was unanimously adopted.

Ninth District

Members of the Ninth Congressional District Coolidge committee will meet in the Los Angeles headquarters on Thursday afternoon, April 24th. Plans for precinct work and other activities to precede the May 6th primary will be made at this meeting, according to letters which have been sent out to members of the executive committee for the district.

April 26 to May 1—Mail sample ballots.

April 29—Missouri Republican convention.

May 1—Southern California Coolidge women's rally, Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles.

June 10—National Republican convention at Cleveland, Ohio.

HORSE THIEF PASSING

Steady inroads being made by the automobile is no doubt largely responsible for the action of the county commissioners at Elkhart, Ind., recently ordering "all horse thief detective organizations in the county to turn in their list of constables so that all commissions can be revoked."

MISSOURI

ST. LOUIS—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, lord high commissioner of baseball, heartily endorsed the statements of Thaddeus Snow at the Statler Hotel, when Snow said that the American farmer had certainly learned to make two blades of grass grow where but one had grown before. Later on in his speech, Snow made the remark that the American farmer did not know how to get as much for his two blades as he formerly got for his one, which made Landis laugh until he had to take a drink of water.

"The boy who has to play baseball in the street car tracks feels that he is not being treated right," said Judge Landis during his address, "and a boy who feels that way is not getting a fair start in life. That is why I advocate the building of many playgrounds."

KANSAS CITY—The heirs of original grantors of the property on which the Grand Avenue Temple now stands are suing to recover on the grounds that terms in the deed conveying the same in 1866 were unconstitutional at that time. About $1,250,000 is concerned.

JEFFERSON CITY — Charles W. Luyties has been named head of the Missouri department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at their fourth annual encampment, just closed. A new subsidiary organization named the Cooties was formed.

CANADA

TORONTO—In view of the request for a raise made by American postal employes, the following is of interest. A message was received lately by the secretary of the Postal Clerks' Association from their president which stated that, contrary to general opinion, no statement has been issued. No increase has been offered and the strike order still stands intact, pending decision of the Civil Service Commission.

TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS—It is rumored that a gigantic merger of two banks will be made in the near future. The deposits of the two banks, the Guaranty Bank and Trust and the Planters' Bank and Trust company, will aggregate $37,500,000. If this combine is effected, the result will be the strongest bank in the South.

MEMPHIS—J. H. Price, colored, pleaded guilty to the theft of a pair of inner tubes, but on consulting his attorney changed his plea to not guilty. His attorney said that a plea of "present insanity" would be entered, because his client must necessarily have been insane to have passed up the rest of the loot that was present, is the report from the jail.

NORTH CAROLINA

WASHINGTON

TACOMA—Captain Robert Rosenbluth and Sergeant Roland H. Pothier are expected to stand trial here for being implicated in the murder of Major Alexander R. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis, Wash., October 25, 1918. Pothier claims he is being unjustly held and at his new trial promises to make sensational disclosures. Rosenbluth also is confident he can establish his innocence.

ARIZONA

PHOENIX—Political capital is being made of Democratic Governor Hunt's quarantine measures against California in face of Republican President Coolidge's protest. Sides are being taken and it is said that only federal intervention will settle the row.

W. H. Lane has resigned as assistant state engineer.

LEADS AUDIENCE IN CHRIST'S PATH

Rev. L. J. Millikan, in Sermon on Easter Meditations, Follows Savior

Services at the Broadway Methodist church Sunday were unusually impressive. An interesting program, in keeping with the days, was rendered by the Sunday school, scholars of the various departments taking part. Songs by the children were truly inspiring. "Bringing in the Sheaves" was sung in the Chinese language by Miss Gertrude Edens.

"Easter Meditations" was the subject of the morning sermon by the pastor, Rev. L. J. Millikan, who chose for his text First Peter 1:3-5. He said in part:

"This glorious proclamation comes through divine inspiration, and has grown richer and sweeter with the passing of the years. On this bright Easter morn it is appropriate that we go back to the hills of Galilee and walk with Jesus; listen to His magic words—'Peace, be still'—directed to the raging sea; thence to the desert where the hungry throng crowded Him and was more than filled; thence to the humble homes He entered, and clasped the once feeble and paralyzed hand, but which has now been made well and strong by Him; then listen to an assuring voice 'I only know that once I was blind but now I see'; then follow on to Gethsemane where the Master's suffering was even greater than that on the cross; see Him as He walks away from Pilate's court condemned to death by mockery; walk with Him as he climbs the hill under the load of His own cross; see Him nailed to that cruel cross and lifted up in the air to the gaze of that treacherous mob. Oh, how cruel! How unfair! And then listen to His matchless words uttered while being brutally murdered: 'Father, forgive them!' With the words, 'It is finished,' plans for our redemption were complete, but oh what a price was paid.

"The laying of His body in the tomb brought only sorrow and disappointment to the hearts of His followers, for it did seem to them that the powers of Satan had triumphed over God's plan. But closely following this dark hour we hear three words spoken by an angel—three words that mean more to a lost world than all the other words ever spoken: 'He is Risen.' Thank God for the victory that came through Christ's resurrection! Thus He conquered death, hell and the grave, and made ample provision for our redemption. Through the words of the text I can hear Jesus Christ say to all humanity: 'O death, where is thy sting?' 'O grave, where is thy victory?'

"It is but fitting that we all rededicate our lives to Him on this glad Easter day."

At the evening service the subject of the sermon was "California's Greatest Asset." Naming many of the State's resources, he pointed out very clearly that none, nor all, can compare with California's young life. Climate, fertile valleys, mountains rich in mineral wealth, oil production, abundant fruit and grain crops, commerce over the mighty ocean—all very valuable, but yet insignificant to the value of our young life. We can change this greatest asset to a liability of astounding proportions.

At the close of the morning service baptism service was administered, and two young men received into church membership.

Luther Wills' Slayer Is Guilty of Murder

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—B. T. Vernon was convicted of second degree murder in the court of Judge Carlos Hardy by a jury for the slaying of Luther G. Wills.
